

People Stranded in Elevators

NEW YORK (AP) — A gigantic power failure, worst of its kind in New York's history, Monday knocked out service to some 500 square blocks of homes, apartments, hospitals, museums and business establishments.

The break was confined to the area on both sides of Central Park where 500,000 persons reside. But its effects extended to the far reaches of the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn.

Millions of people were caught in the snarl that grew out of the power failure. The misery of 89-degree heat and murderous humidity was compounded by tieups above and below the blistering streets of the city.

Subway service on the Independent Line—fastest and finest in the city—was halted completely in midtown for a time. When it resumed, trains inched along; motormen guided by lantern signals from sentinels aloft in the dark tunnels. This cut service by half during the rush hour, creating vast underground jams of steaming humanity.

Hospital patients were operated on by surgeons working beneath emergency lights. Iron lungs were operated manually to keep imprisoned victims alive.

Traffic lights went out, leaving bewildered motorists without guidance at some of the busiest intersections in the world.

Elevators stranded people between floors when the power went off.

The burdensome heat was the cause of the mess. Demands on the power network burned out seven feeder lines.

No Lights Bewilder Motorists

This so increased the burden on 13 other feeder lines in the network that they had to be shut down lest irreparable damage result.

The affected area encompasses some of the stateliest apartment buildings in the city, some of its finest restaurants, most of its museums and several of its hospitals.

Extra police were assigned to the afflicted area to guard against looting on darkened streets. Few shopkeepers were able to keep open after dark for lack of power facilities.

Some banks in the area were unable to lock their vaults for the night, because the ponderous doors are manipulated by electricity. Extra guards were assigned to the institutions.

Dollars 'Steered' To German Homes

Ship Rites Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—The $3,000,000 department of transport icebreaker Simon Fraser will be christened today by Mrs. E. D. Fulton, wife of the minister of justice. The craft will be based in Victoria as a supply, search and rescue vessel.

KAISERSLAUTERN, Germany (Reuters) — A special joint West German-American commission met here Monday to investigate allegations that millions of dollars worth of American government material and labor have been used to build and repair houses and private roads for Germans.

A United States army investigator told a reporter: "This has been going on for six years . . .

"We have about 100 suspects in the Kaiserslautern post repair and utility section who most likely built 28 private homes and three private roads with stolen material from the Kaiserslautern repair and utility depot."

A spokesman at the U.S. army European headquarters in Heidelberg said Friday it also had been alleged that army employees who reported irregularities to their superiors had been demoted or discharged.

Trustees Cool To City Hall

Tentative plans to include Greater Victoria school board offices in any new city hall were coolly received by school trustees last night.

City manager C. C. Wyatt appeared before the school board at its regular monthly meeting to explain the proposed lease-purchase plan for a new eight-storey city hall.

Board chairman Mrs. Gertrude McGill said she was concerned that if the school board occupied two floors of the city hall there would be no room for further expansion.

Trustee Richard Reeve said parking facilities required by the board would have to hold about 200 cars.

He said probably the school board would be better served at less cost if its own building was located farther out of the downtown area, in view of parking requirements.

Board secretary-treasurer T. L. Christie said he was told by city comptroller Dennis Young that an estimated rental would approximate $1.75 per square foot.

"That figure is quite low," Mr. Christie said, "but it would amount to some $31,500 a year." On the other hand, the school board could build its own building at a cost of $350,000 and amortize it at an annual cost of $30,513 on six per cent coupons.

Radar Trap Gets 60

PRINCETON (CP)—Sixty drivers were tagged for speeding Sunday when RCMP set up two radar speed traps near here for drivers returning to Vancouver from the Kelowna regatta which ended Saturday.

It was the largest bag of speeders ever ticketed in the B.C. Interior with the aid of radar.

'Quake Rattles B.C., Prairies

VANCOUVER (CP) — An earth tremor rolled through the Pacific Northwest late Monday, heaving sidewalks, rocking buildings and rattling dishes.

Slight damage was reported and the tremor was sharpest in the West Kootenays and the southern B.C. Interior.

An RCMP officer sitting at his desk in Fairview, in the Okanagan Valley, was startled when a chair began rolling aimlessly on its casters.

FEW SECONDS

The quake was unofficially reported to have taken place at 11:45 p.m. PDT. Most reports said it lasted only a few seconds, although a report from Kelowna said it lasted half a minute or more.

Shaking of lamps and the rattling of dishes was reported in the Seattle, Spokane, Wenatchee and Everett areas of Washington and in Lethbridge and Regina on the Prairies.

No reports were immediately available from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich.

Residents of Penticton said they had a "queasy" feeling. "There was no sound but we soon knew what had happened," said one man.

SIDEWALKS ROLL

Residents of Nelson said dishes rattled and buildings shuddered. At Fairview, some saw the sidewalks heave and roll.

The radio station at Trail was swamped with calls. At Grand Forks the walls of the community's telephone exchange office were cracked.

Normally calm and placid Skaha Lake, near Penticton, erupted with "miniature tidal wave," a witness said.

A patron of a drive-in theatre at Vernon accused his wife of rocking the car when the tremor shook the grounds. She denied it and blamed him before both, realizing it had been an earthquake.

In Wenatchee, a radio station received reports that the bump was felt as far away as Boise, Idaho, parts of Montana and south to Sacramento, Calif.

A woman at Yakima Wash., telephoned the police to check her house for burglars because the clock chimed mysteriously went off.

Jostled From Bed

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — The Lethbridge area apparently was the Alberta centre Monday night of an earth tremor felt throughout the Pacific Northwest.

The tremor was recorded in Lethbridge at 11:40 p.m. and was noticed in a wide area surrounding the city.

In the Waterton Lakes National Park, 60 miles southwest, guests at resorts were jostled out of their beds by the tremor.

Buildings Shaken

REGINA (CP) — Regina buildings, especially the taller ones, were rocked by an earthquake at 12:45 a.m. today.

No damage was reported but the quake could be felt as three sharp shocks that rattled windows, swayed buildings and, on a tall apartment building, set furniture clattering across floors.

Attempt to End Lumber Dispute

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks stepped into the coast lumber strike yesterday by appointing economics expert Dr. John J. Deutsch of Vancouver as mediator.

The move was welcomed by spokesmen for both management and union involved in the six-week-old strike which has brought B.C.'s major industry to a full stop and left 25,000 coastal workers idle.

EARLIER PROBE

Dr. Deutsch, former professor of economics at the University of British Columbia, conducted last year's investigation into the amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipalities.

Both Joe Morris, IWA district president, and J. M. Billings, manager of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., immediately notified Mr. Wicks of their appreciation of the move and promised the fullest co-operation.

Dr. Deutsch was appointed a one-man industrial inquiry commission under section 44 of the Labor Relations Act, which gives the labor minister power to "do such things as seem calculated to maintain or secure industrial peace and to promote conditions favorable to settlement of disputes."

He has been given 14 days in which to investigate the situation and report back to Mr. Wicks. The time may be extended at Mr. Wicks' discretion.

WE HAVE FAITH . . .

"We have faith in the soundness of our position and are confident that Dr. Deutsch . . . will have due regard for the position of a highly-exposed and competitive industry like ours, as contrasted with sheltered local industries," he said.

Mr. Morris said the IWA has been "ready at all times to enter discussions promising a satisfactory settlement of the dispute."

Majority recommendation of a conciliation board approved before the strike the offer made by management for an increase equivalent to seven per cent over two years in the $1.72 hourly wage.

The union has asked for a 20-per-cent increase but is reported to have reduced this to 12 per cent during negotiations.

Yukon Well Major Find?

An oil and gas find in the north central Yukon was described here last night by A. P. Davidson, chief of the northern affairs department's resources division, as "perhaps a major development."

He said a good flow of light gravity oil was reported from a well being drilled at Eagle Plain, 200 miles north of Dawson City. The oil is the type best suited to gasoline production, but rate of flow is not known.

The gas is "drill stem tested" at a rate up to 10,000,000 cubic feet a day.

He Missed

Innocent Gunman Hunted

VANCOUVER (CP)—A teen-ager gunman who police say is desperate because he thinks he has killed a man was being hunted in the Fraser Valley Monday night.

A score of RCMP officers were looking for a youth who injured four persons by firing through the window of a CPR train, came within inches of shooting to death a sleeping Indian and fired three other fusillades in the area.

RCMP broadcast a radio appeal to a 19-year-old youth from Agassiz, B.C., telling him to give himself up because he didn't kill the Indian he shot at.

Police said he shot at Peter John, 19, of Hope, at 10 p.m. Sunday. The bullet spun into the mattress of John's bed only inches from his body.

A few minutes earlier, a rifle shot shattered the window of a self-propelled CPR diesel car near John's home. Spraying glass hit four passengers who were later treated for slight cuts at a nearby hospital.

Police said that about the same time a lock was shot off the door of a CPR stationhouse in the same area.

Officers suspect the youth whom they are hunting is jealous of Peter John.

Terror 'Reigns' Town

ATLANTIC, Que. (UPI) — Mayor Rene Therien called an emergency civic meeting to combat what he called "a reign of terror" by the town's juveniles.

He said a meeting of parents, councillors and clergy will consider steps to meet the "urgent" problem.

The mayor has already closed the town's recreation centre and considered imposing a curfew.

Therien said that "young vandals" had caused an estimated $1,500 in property damage to the recreation centre in the last year. Yesterday alone, he said, there were five street fights near the building.

Six Easy Steps to Fame

OTTAWA (CP) — A rookie Ottawa policeman has earned himself lasting fame on his first tour of beat duty.

The rookie, spared identification by his superiors who told the story Monday, was checking in downtown Ottawa when he found a store door unlocked. He phoned the owner, who came and locked up. At the end of his shift, the constable began to make out the standard "unsecured property" form reporting the incident. All went well until he came to the heading, "Steps taken."

He wrote:

"Six. Three in. Nothing wrong. Three out."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

The strangest mass-production industry in the world is the Japanese haiku industry, which produces over one million units a year.

What is a haiku? Why, a haiku is a traditional Japanese 17-syllable poem, following a pattern that has been fixed since the early 13th century. Without haiku poems, Japanese life wouldn't be what it is.

Professor Harold G. Henderson, the author of "An Introduction to Haiku" (Doubleday Anchor) gives us a fascinating anthology of his expert translations. See how this strikes you:

Insects one hears—
And one hears the talk of men—
With different ears.
Or this:
A graveyard: low

The grave mounds lie, and rank
The grasses grow.
Or this:
A man, just one—
Also a fly, just one
In the huge drawing room.
Or this:
A song alone
Comes down—and of the skylark
The last trace is gone.

Perhaps you're not impressed, but I think these examples do give some idea of why the Japanese buy some 50 monthly magazines filled with about 1,500 haiku pieces. The point seems to be that, these poems create a maximum of emotion with an absolute minimum of words.

Concentrated Essence

Professor Henderson says a haiku can be the "concentrated essence of poetry." Some of the translations took him 25 years and he's still not satisfied with them. He insists the best haiku poems convey "a great zest for life... a wide sympathy... a feeling that nothing is alone, nothing unimportant."

Perhaps, and yet it is fantastically difficult for a Westerner to understand that the most famous haiku poet of them all, Matsuo Basho (1644-1694) is best remembered for this poem, "probably the best known haiku in the Japanese language":

Old pond:
Frog jump in Water-sound.

Yes, that's it—all 17 syllables of it (in Japanese). "It has been my own experience," writes Professor Henderson, "that the more one reads them (Basho's haiku poems), the more one finds depths in each single one, even in those that appear most trivial."

But then, you have to remember that Professor Henderson has been reading and rereading haiku poems for most of his 70 years.

Scuffle with Officer Brings Trio to Court

Three men, Ronald Johansen, Charles Johnson and Richard Sanders, all of no fixed address, pleaded guilty in Esquimalt police court yesterday to charges arising out of a scuffle Aug. 15 with a policeman and were remanded to Friday for sentence.

Johansen was charged with assault and Johnson and Sanders were charged with obstructing a peace officer.

Const. Gordon Jenkins told the court he attended a disturbance on Head Street at 6:05 p.m. last Saturday and found Johnson fighting with another man.

"When I placed him under arrest," the constable recounted, "he pushed me away and then Johnson and Sanders tore my shirt and I was slugged on the chin by Johansen."

Documents entered by the crown showed Johansen had nine previous convictions and Sanders three.

For Thousands of Visitors

Air Force Ready

Plans to accommodate some 25,000 Vancouver Islanders at Air Force Day ceremonies Saturday at RCAF Station Comox were announced by air force officials yesterday.

Thousands more are expected to witness a spectacular aerobatic display at Victoria Sunday by the nation's top precision jet pilots, the RCAF Golden Hawks.

The Hawks will put on their program of tight-formation aerobatics and solo stunting over the water near Finlayson Point, Marine Drive, starting at 2:30 p.m.

The exciting sequence of "loops, rolls, cross-overs, bombbursts, Cuban eights and rumburbs" will last for 25 minutes.

On Saturday the team of precision pilots, led by Sqdn. Ldr. Fern Villeneuve, 31, of Ottawa, will put on its show as the closing event of the Comox program.

The Comox air force station, base for 407 Squadron, Maritime Air Command, and 409

Squadron, all-weather fighters, will be opened to the public at noon Saturday.

In addition to movies portraying the air force role in wartime, attractions are model flying, static displays and 13 flying events involving eight types of service aircraft, including the submarine-hunting Argus, largest aircraft used by the RCAF.

Armed Cubans Told 'Get Out of Chile'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chile protested Monday night over the unauthorized landing of a Cuban military plane here and demanded that it leave the country.

The 41 armed military men and reporters who arrived in the plane were detained by Chilean authorities.

The plane carried an advance party for the visit of Maj. Raul Castro, brother of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, to the conference of American foreign ministers in Santiago. One Chilean air force officer said that technically the landing of the Cuban plane here could be interpreted under Chilean law as an invasion.

The order for the plane to leave Chile came after President Jorge Alessandri told the Chilean foreign ministry to adhere strictly to the country's laws on the entry of foreign aircraft.

These prohibit the landing in Chile of foreign military planes, carrying armed personnel without prior permission.

Chilean air force chief Diego Barros Ortiz said the Cuban plane was ordered to take off today and will be escorted to the border by Chilean warplanes.

The Chilean foreign ministry said that the plane bringing Raul Castro—presumably today—would "receive every courtesy" of the Chilean government on entering and leaving the country.

Meanwhile, Cuba denounced the Dominican Republic for the alleged airborne invasion of Cuba and suggested the Dominican regime of Rafael Trujillo was also behind the invasion of Haiti.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa made his attack at the American foreign ministers' conference after Haiti appealed to the conference to put a stop to the invasion reported last Friday.

Haitian Foreign Minister Louis Mars hinted in his petition that the invasion by sea had been made by Cuban rebels. His appeal was referred to the 21-nation Organization of American States in Washington.

Trujillo Ready To Start War?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Miami News says Dominican Dictator Rafael Trujillo is ready to trigger a war with Cuba as part of his plan to overthrow Fidel Castro.

Jay Mallin writes from Havana that "Trujillo was ready to send his bombers against Cuban cities."

Once-Corrupt Dock Union Forgiven

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP)—The AFL-CIO executive council Monday voted to admit the International Longshoremen's Association on a probationary basis.

The 60,000-member ILA was ousted from the AFL six years ago on corruption charges.

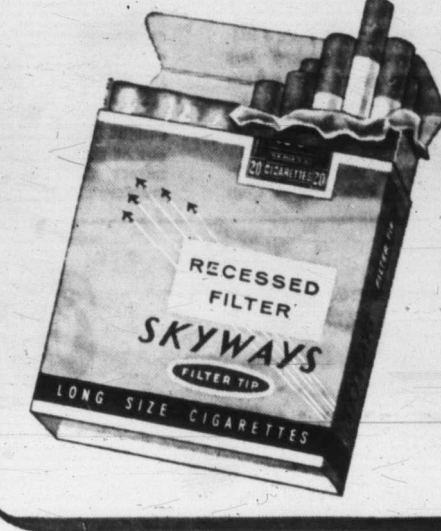

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said the council approved admission of the ILA to the combined federation because AFL-CIO leaders are convinced the waterfront union has made substantial progress in ridding itself of hoodlums and correcting corrupt conditions.

It was the first time the AFL-CIO has decided to take back a union ousted for corruption. Other unions more recently ousted included the Teamsters, Bakery Workers and Laundry Workers.

Space Flare Soars

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. space agency fired a gigantic sodium flare 150 miles above Virginia's eastern shore Monday, creating a spectacle visible from Pittsburgh, Pa., and Dayton, Ohio, to southern Florida.

It was the first shot in a high-atmosphere research series aimed at learning about upper-level winds and the rate at which material discharged at that level spreads out.

Another shot is set for Tuesday evening.

The 75-pound payload was carried by a 27-foot, two-stage Nike-Asp research rocket.

The rocket nose cone contained 10 pounds of sodium propellant, set off at an altitude of 50 miles by a charge of thermite.

The sodium, burning yellow, made a vapor trail up to 150 miles where the trail was capped by a vapor cloud 100 miles long.

Reflected sunlight kept the great cloud glowing for more than half an hour.

Newfoundland

Election Leaders Confident

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP)—Both Liberal Premier Smallwood and Conservative Opposition Leader Hollett Monday expressed confidence in their party's chances in the Newfoundland election Thursday.

"I believe it is going to be a big victory for us," the premier said in an interview.

"We are 100 per cent unified," said Mr. Hollett, leader of the two-man PC opposition at dissolution of the 36-seat legislature last month. "We'll come back with increased strength and I will defeat Mr. Smallwood in St. John's West."

Premier Smallwood predicts that neither the PCs nor the novice Newfoundland Democratic Party will elect a member.

CPR Crash On Prairies Due to Fog?

GULL LAKE, Sask. (CP)—Fog may have been partly to blame Sunday when two Canadian Pacific Railway trains collided here, injuring 69 persons.

CPR officials at Medicine Hat, Alta., in charge of investigating the wreck, said Monday fog and cloud "may have been a factor in the cause of the collision."

Trains involved were No. 6, carrying freight, baggage, and one passenger coach, and the Dominion, a crack passenger train.

Controls on the Gull Lake section are automatic, officials said. Both trains were east-bound.

Of the 69 injured, 10 were detained in hospital here.

Lone Negro Jeered

Whites Ignore Chance to Segregate Inside Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—White students jeered Negro Jefferson Thomas, 17, outside Central High school yesterday. The harassment was the lone incident in anti-integration activities as white children ignored legal opportunity to demand segregated classes. Central and Hall high schools opened their fall terms last Wednesday with three Negro girls attending Hall and a Negro boy at Central. Police using clubs and fire hoses smashed a segregationist demonstration outside Central High on opening day. But there have been no incidents inside the schools.

Only one parent so far has invoked a previously little-noticed 1958 law that provides no student shall be forced to attend classes with a member of another race. In event of numerous objections to integrated classes, this could lead to segregation within schools. John A. McLeod Jr., a white attorney, disclosed he has invoked the law to prevent his 15-year-old daughter from attending classes with the three Negro pupils at Hall.

He said he wanted other parents to become aware of the law and use it if they wished.

Neither principal has received any other request that white students be segregated.

These 2 gasolines give new power, new smoothness, more mileage

EXCEL WITH SHELL

If the manufacturer recommends "premium"—

Super Shell with TCP

You get the most mileage, a smoother-running engine, from the most powerful gasoline your car can use.

Super Shell's superior road performance—the actual power delivered to the wheels of your car—now means more power-per-gallon than ever before. When cruising, Super Shell's new extra power converts automatically in your car's engine to give you increased mileage and lower running costs. But—the price of Super Shell has not been raised! And remember: Super Shell has TCP*. This unique patented additive neutralizes harmful engine deposits that can rob even a new car of its peak performance.

If the manufacturer recommends "regular"—

Shell Gasoline with TCP

It's loaded with premium features, but sells for the price of regular gasolines

Shell Gasoline is a quality gasoline with better performance than the very top premiums of only a short time ago. Shell Gasoline is designed to give top performance in all cars except those with a very high compression ratio. And Shell Gasoline has TCP. This unique patented additive helps smooth out engine "roughness" and spark plug "miss". ... gives you all the power and mileage you pay for. In Defence of Canada

THERE seems to be some concern on the part of The Times of London lest Canada become too involved in the defence of her own territory at the expense of overseas commitments. This rather suggests that Canada is still seen in her former light as a nation with no anxiety about her own shores and therefore free to rush to the aid of Europe in a wartime emergency. That aspect still is valid in that the best equipped Canadian army and air forces are in Europe now, but the strategic picture has changed. Canada is no longer absolved from thoughts of home defence—she could be a Belgium in a future war—and must pay some heed to her home requirements.

The problems of North American air defence may be no less urgent than, say, the problems of British or European air defence. The Times argues that since the nuclear deterrent exists the active air defence of cities, industry and population is a sheer luxury. If this were so then every egg would be thrown into one basket, which seemingly The Times situates in Europe. One doubts that Britain, for instance, simply lies back depending alone on the nuclear deterrent—handled there by U.S. forces as well as in North America—and does nothing else towards the protection of her own borders.

It is true that the Fortress America concept threatens to suck Canada into the American orbit, as The Times fears, and this is something that clashes with her trans-Atlantic interests. There is also the delicate subject of sovereignty over foreign-held bases; albeit Britain has similar liabilities of this nature. Some things are inescapable, however, and one of them is that for the first time for a hundred years this nation has immediate obligations respecting its own home defence. If these caused some lessening of European participation Canada could scarcely be faulted.

One suspects that The Times of London thinks Canada's primary role should be as it was in the past, a recruiting depot for the defence of others. Would indeed that it still was, but facts are not to be denied by sentiment. A potential peril exists not far from Canada's own boundaries, and for Canadians this means that strategy must be mapped with home defence assuming its rightful proportions.

One Number for Emergencies

A PRACTICABLE and cheap solution to the problem of establishing a single telephone number for all emergency calls in the south Vancouver Island region has been outlined by Alderman Edgelow and will be recommended by him to the intermunicipal committee.

As an alternative to the earlier proposal of a single number of three digits (such as 999) in the B.C. Telephone Company's dial system, the plan now is to employ an existing telephone answering service to receive all emergency calls and convey the necessary information to the appropriate departments in the municipalities involved. An easy-to-remember number would be allotted to the answering service; and EV 2-1111, not at the moment in use, has been mentioned as one that would be suitable.

The necessity to set up a simpler emergency call system has been obvious for a long time. On the front page of the Victoria and district phone directory there are listed more than a dozen different numbers for various types of emergency. In excitement or anxiety it is very easy for a caller to dial the wrong number, with what might be serious delay as a result. Where numbers do not fix themselves in the mind also there is the added danger of transpositions of digits or other flustered mistakes in dialing. A three-figure call which could be dialed in the dark would be preferable to one with the EV prefix followed by five digits; but EV 2-1111 would be much simpler to dial accurately than some of the emergency numbers now in use.

Cost has become the main consideration in this matter, with $50 a month for answering service set against the $100,000-a-year estimate of the telephone company for operation of an automatic exchange system. Even if only the organized areas shared the cost, that would be a mere $10 a month each—for a vital public service.

Drinking Aboard Boats

JUDGMENT of interest to thousands of owners of pleasure boats was handed down by the magistrate in West Vancouver at the end of last week. It established the right of anyone to drink liquor aboard his own boat without falling foul of the law. Presumably the right extends also to the owner's guests, since the form which the judgment took was a ruling that a boat is not a public place within the meaning of the statutes.

The case in West Vancouver involved prosecution of a man seen by the police drinking a bottle of beer in his boat off Point Atkinson. Although of primary importance to owners of boats, the principle introduced was of interest to the public generally because it touched on the freedom of the individual and the latitude which should be permitted to him in doing on or in his own property something which would not be an offence in a public drinking place such as a beer parlor or cocktail bar. In most respects the West Vancouver case was similar to one some time ago in Ontario where a man charged on the information of a neighbor with drinking within view of a public place, because he had a bottle of beer in his own garden, was acquitted for much the same reason.

The fact that a private boat has been declared not to be a public place does not necessarily mean, however, that people may now make nuisances of themselves by holding noisy drinking parties aboard boats. There are other sections of the law to take care of offensive behavior in public; and the owners or operators of pleasure boats should remember that drunkenness or impairment while in charge of a boat is now just as much an offence as the same state when in charge of a car.

Interpreting the News

Peiping Annoys Nehru

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TO Prime Minister Nehru, who graduated with honors from the prison cell of a colonial power, no shrewder insult could be offered than the label of imperialist.

The Indian leader, who has patiently endured a variety of difficulties with domestic and foreign Communists, was understandably moved to protest to the Chinese government when the offensive epithet made its appearance in official Peiping propaganda organs.

If the Chinese were in a mood to reply to Indian protests, they would probably explain that Nehru suffers from an old-fashioned addiction to dictionaries in his approach to the meaning of words.

To Nehru, an imperialist is a believer in the rule of one people by another. To the Chinese propagandist an imperialist is simply someone who is being awkward about practically anything concerning foreign policy.

Nehru could, if he chose, apply his definition of the word to the Chinese government for its refusal to recognize the Indian nationality of long-time residents of the formerly autonomous region of Tibet. The propagandist, in turn, unhesitatingly invokes it when India insists that her present boundary with China should remain unchanged.

In provoking India's prime minister to wrath, the unkind adjective has probably done him a good turn, politically. Indian newspapers have given increasing signs of restiveness with Nehru's sweetly reasonable attitude toward his northern neighbor.

Apart from his firm stand on the boundary question and his prompt ouster of the Communist government of Kerala State in the face of communal riots, Nehru has worked consistently to maintain friendly relations with Peiping and Moscow.

Many Westerners have not forgiven him for the marked contrast between his prompt denunciation for British and French actions in Suez and his tardy rebuke—barely a slap of the wrist—of Russia's simultaneous activities in Hungary.

In continuing to press for the reconstitution of the three-power commission in Laos, against the wishes of the Laotian government, as the result of the renewed outbreak of resistance from the Communist Pathet Lao, the prime minister has shown himself determined to hew to his neutralist course wherever possible. Under the circumstances, the Chinese propagandists are shooting at a sitting target. But Nehru's anger suggests that the open season may be about over.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A GENERAL of older vintage wrote a book called "Generals Die in Bed" but modern generals are more apt to die in print. Or at least have a shot at their demise of their rivals' reputations.

This all adds to the gaiety of nations. In past eras when generals took up the pen they were as non-committal, and as dry, as their dispatches. Nowadays they are much less inhibited, as you might notice almost any day by the newspapers. There are no silent services any more.

Just the other day you would read a bit from General Sir Richard McCreery, Alexander's chief of staff in the Middle East. It was to the effect that Montgomery had spilled needless lives at Alamein.

I have been perusing a much longer extract from the article in question, which appeared in the Journal of the 12th Royal Lancers. McCreery spills the beans about antagonisms that existed in the Western Desert, especially after Montgomery arrived to fight Rommel for six.

There was General Lumsden, a corps commander, who appeared suddenly in his London club in uniform, wearing a bowler hat, and saying: "I've just been sacked because there isn't room for two cads like Monty and me at the same time."

In his memoirs Montgomery's version is that "a major battle was above Lumsden's ceiling."

Incidentally, both McCreery and Lumsden were 12th Lancers and Montgomery was an infantryman.

McCreery suggests—touching on Monty's field headgear—that "the wearing of a black beret, even with two badges in it, does not make one a tank expert." And that the new army commander failed in not listening to expert advice. "He was determined that the new broom should know all the answers!"

He claims that Lumsden wasn't given a free hand.

Montgomery seems to have anticipated his critics. He records that "GHQ regarded me as an unpleasant new broom," and makes it clear his "master plan wasn't going to be mucked about by subordinate commanders."

Obviously he wasn't interested in entering a popularity contest. It may be reflection on these desert days that led him two weeks ago to suggest a special prayer for commanders-in-chief, to wit: "Lord, teach me to be right instead of wrong, and help me to live with others when I am right."

Historians of the future are certainly going to have a merry time sorting out the acrimony of rival generals of the last war. They can scarcely overlook the fact that Montgomery never lost a battle, however, a somewhat important aspect of warfare.

When he arrived to take over the Eighth Army, Montgomery tells us, his first aim was to raise its morale. One judges McCreery thought he raised it too high. The Eighth Army became as cocky as its commander; the build-up "led everyone to adopt a very intolerant attitude to others."

This gave McCreery trouble; it "made my task much more difficult in the last few weeks of the African campaign."

Reports From Ottawa

OIL and natural gas production likely will set new records this year, but some 950 capped gas wells and halved oil well flows tell a story of a giant in economic chains.

The industry looks to Ottawa to help strike off these chains. It looks to the government and to the National Energy Board for policies and decisions which will provide access to new markets and encourage national self-sufficiency.

It was 22 months ago that the government appointed a royal commission headed by Henry Borden, erstwhile public utilities magnate (Brazilian Traction), to make an intensive study of the nation's energy resources. Since then the government has done little, with the notable exception of its successful protest over U.S. limitation of oil imports from Canada.

But now, at very long last, far-reaching decisions may be on their way. The government has had the Borden Commission's report on gas for 10 months now. In a few days the second report, on oil, will be made public. And last week the government appointed the five members of the National Energy Board which Parliament created by legislation this spring.

In capsule, the situation in the oil industry is that the country's 12,000 wells are capable of producing more than a million barrels daily, but are being held down to an average of 50 per cent of capacity. A quarter of the oil produced is going to the U.S.; the remainder to western Canadian markets and southern Ontario. Eastern Canada, mainly Montreal, is importing about 400,000 barrels daily of Venezuelan and Middle East crude and American refined products, creating a $800,000,000 trade deficit in oil this year.

The industry is split over whether national self-sufficiency, via a $400,000,000 pipeline from Alberta to Montreal, can be justified on economic grounds. That is probably the most spectacular issue facing Ottawa in the formulation of a national oil policy. But other matters also will bulk largely in policy determination here in the months ahead—customs tariffs, pipeline tariffs, capital assistance, tax policies and export markets.

Within a few years Canada may well be a major oil country. Proven reserves were only 3,600,000,000 barrels as of Dec. 31, but ultimate reserves are estimated at more than 48,000,000,000 barrels—not counting up to 300,000,000,000 barrels soaked in the tar sands of northern Alberta.

By contrast, the proven reserves of Kuwait are 50,000,000,000 barrels; Saudi Arabia, 45,000,000,000; Iran, 32,000,000,000; U.S., 30,000,000,000; Iraq, 25,000,000,000; USSR, 23,000,000,000; Venezuela, 14,000,000,000.

The situation concerning gas is the same, only more so. Proven reserves: more than 28 trillion cubic feet; ultimate reserves: estimated at more than 300 trillion cu. ft. Yet for months the government has been sitting on applications to export gas to northern U.S. and California.

The industry's anguish was stated in June, and with some moderation, by British-American Oil President E. D. Brockett: "Increased export of gas at the earliest possible date is essential... Undue delay increases the risk of losing potential markets that are available to the industry today, and postpones the realization of the related industrial development of Canada."

Still your move, Ottawa.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

AROUND this time of year there comes an instant, a fleeting flash of insight for all of us, in which we realize that the turn of the year has come, that summer is closing, and that autumn is at the door.

In June, we imagine the summer ahead of us is a long, long season that may, indeed, never end. In June, we have completely forgotten September. In July, the lovely impression of floating in time remains with us. It is for this, we say to ourselves, that the year is made. Even in the first week or two of August, the illusion of the continuance of summer lingers in our minds.

But without warning, and usually on a particularly fine August day, there comes this sudden melancholy instant of realization. It passes as instantly as it comes. It is like a flick of intuition, and we perceive for the first time since June that we are on the downhill side of the year.

How quickly now the days and the few remaining weeks will tumble down the hill. It is as if we had received a warning and from now on we will be alert to the shortening days, the earlier nightfall, the gathering winds; we will be conscious of the heaviness of the foliage in the trees. The yellows and purples of golden rod and wild aster will assert themselves to our eyes accustomed to the greens and blues of summer, and we will know it is time to wake up from the dream and get ready for the long reality that lies between September and next May.

Not a Race Apart

(From The Montreal Gazette)

FOR some years now, there has been intelligent searching and honest concern about what happens to people when they reach retirement age. There have been well-meaning, but impolite, peeks into old peoples' homes and strange footprints have been seen on certain beaches—all in the official interest of helping older people.

What do these older people do? What are their interests?

The basic foolishness in all these surveys is that they look upon older people as a race apart. They aren't. They are just us—a little later.

And, right now, they have a pretty general feeling. If the world thinks that they left it in a bad mess, they have a wonderful reply, and a reply that carries a lot of meaning: "Why didn't you allow us to carry on?"

Human Relations

Back in the Stone Age

By CASSANDRA, from London

IN every sphere of industry the most astonishing technical changes are taking place. In electronics, in general research and in basic planning, discoveries are taking place which, in their magnitude, compare with those of Copernicus, Newton, Faraday, Edison, Einstein and Fleming.

Yet in the field of human relations dealing not with astronomy, physics, electricity, relativity or medicine we are back in the stone age.

Just consider this present preposterous and almost criminally grotesque situation surrounding this saint or sinner Mr. Horsman and the strike at his employers, the British Motor Corporation.

Because of him and what he stands for, and because of the convictions that his bosses hold and his fellow trade-unionists hold, a gigantic temporary army of unemployed may be created with all the misery of housewives scraping along on strike pay, children going without and debts not being paid.

Hundreds of thousands of pounds will be lost within a few days and untold chaos, if the strike extends, will reach backwards into the vast supporting industries that keep the motor-car business going.

Both sides believing, probably quite wrongly, that they are making a notable stand for a sacred principle, will get their heads down and bring the maximum of obstinacy to bear, convinced that stubbornness is the same as courage in hard times.

Arbitration—which in the end solved the printing dispute—will be a dirty word and the blind rush of the Gadarene swine will gain new honor both in the board room and on the factory floor.

To me it is appalling that we can achieve unbelievable wonders with the help of metals, chemicals, glass and volts, amps and ohms that go into the machinery for making anything from H-bombs to electronic computers.

But when it comes to dealing with flesh and blood, maybe a hundred thousand men are out of a job and a treasure trove running into millions of pounds is wasted before the small voice of common sense and reasonableness is heard throughout the land.

OVER the past four General Elections the difference in the total number of votes cast for the Tories and the socialists has never been more than 3,292,000 (the landslide of 1945) and as little as 231,000 in 1951. This out of total electorates numbering as much as 28,769,000.

This year over 30,000,000 people will be eligible to judge between the virtues of Mr. Gaitskell, Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Grimond.

At a fair guess over 25,000,000 of us have already made up our minds. Where then can we find the magic two or three million who will settle all this business for us?

Three million young people of between 21 and 25 will be eligible to vote for the first time, and it is there that the political Pied Pipers should be out with their most alluring woodwind.

They were born almost too young to remember much about the Hitler war. They have been brought up in a world of full employment, the telly, espresso bars, and the prospect of instant obliteration if somebody gets the wires mixed up over an H-bomb.

Hunger-marches and the misery of the Welsh mining valleys mean nothing to them. They have no particular grudges and, as far as one can judge, no very furious convictions.

Yet they hold the future of our famous land in their uncalled-for hands. And after all it does belong to them. They've got to live this nuclear world out.

Good luck, Flaming Youth. It was ever thus.

THE arrival of Mr. Khrushchev in the United States is going to present the authorities with the greatest security problem that has ever faced the United States police force.

The Land of the Free contains well over a hundred thousand people who have fled from Mr. Khrushchev's tyranny.

The Hungarian refugees alone number 36,000.

Mr. K., who is always boasting of how the Soviet Union is surpassing the United States in various techniques and how he will leave Uncle Sam way behind in seven years, is also very advanced in police security methods.

Let him suggest to Washington that he takes General Serov along with him—the butcher of the Ukraine and one of the greatest experts in dawn deportations the world has ever seen. After all he tried to foist the brute on us not so long ago when he came here with his friend, the unlamented Mr. Bulganin.

I RATHER like the warning notice written up in a pub about the dangers of alcoholic loquacity. It has a nice technical note that may be accounted for by the fact that the boozier is next to a garage. It reads: "Please make sure that brain is engaged before operating mouth."

Trailer Homes

So we do, not pay a sales tax on our non-moving homes! Someone is haywire. Our property tax does not increase?

Let's take item No. 1. When my home was built here every nail, board, piece of wire and plumbing was taxed with five per cent to the builder; and who was the one who paid for it in the end?

The cost of a half-decent home out here is $7,995, of which at $399.75 has been paid in sales tax. But you can not live in an empty house and in comes another five per cent for the furniture, which would be about $3,000. Who wants who double taxed?

Now No. 2. My lot, 60 by 120, was taxed at $11.10 until I put a house on it; then it went to $90. On square footage are the trailer parks increased accordingly?

The last item is one that can and does convict the trailer people. "Go back and pay $90 for a house or an apartment? Never—not when we can live on $40 a month just as easily." Well, someone else has to pay the extra $50.

I could fill this writing pad with other items but I think the foregoing is enough for now; but I would love to discuss this with some of our "hard-done-by neighbors."

A lot of people must have been surprised this morning (Aug. 16.) on reading that the Martin Mars aircraft landed at "Victoria."

When was Patricia Bay transplanted to Victoria? Patricia Bay is in the postal district of Sidney, B.C.

It seems some people in Victoria think that Victoria is the whole of British Columbia.

Crosswalk Needed

Now that a new school term is fast approaching, I would like to express my concern for the lack of a crosswalk at the new Island Highway where Seaton crosses.

With the opening of the new Hampton School, such a crossing is essential for the safety of many small children, who shall be required to cross there.

It would appear that if parents are required to form a petition, or have an injury before such work is done, then something is lacking by those in authority.

Youthful Enterprise

On Friday afternoon I attended a children's fair on Greenwood Avenue where a number of children, one of them a former patient, were doing their best to raise money for the Solarium.

It was a delightful affair. The children had set out on the lawn a number of contests and games of skill which they themselves ran in a most business-like fashion. A puppet show and some excellent tap dancing were most entertaining; then came the fashion show.

It was a pleasure to see these children at work and to realize that they had given up a great deal of their time in the preparation of their fair. They deserve much encouragement and appreciation for their efforts to help other children who are not so fortunate as themselves.

Resources Chief Here

A. P. Davidson, chief of the resources division of the federal northern affairs department, arrived in Victoria yesterday to confer with provincial officials about oil-gas administration policy.

His arrival coincided with word that oil and gas had been discovered in the Yukon, but he said he did not know more about it than had been announced by Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton in Ottawa.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A general's dog, in the care of two master sergeants, rode "first cabin" to Japan aboard a transport while two Korean physicians were assigned to crowded troop quarters below decks, the San Francisco Chronicle reported yesterday.

The newspaper said it learned of the "ill-considered" arrangements from an army paratrooper who wrote shortly after the ship reached Yokohama Aug. 16 from Seattle. Army and navy military sea transportation service officials confirmed that Gen.

Hamilton Howze's Irish setter was aboard the ship in the care of two master sergeants who were assigned cabin space.

The two Korean doctors aboard were returning home after study in the U.S. and were travelling under arrangements with the navy that called for "troop class" accommodations, a navy spokesman said.

The paratrooper wrote that there were 318 men in his compartment on the ship, including two Korean doctors. "The temperature has been 94 degrees and no ventilation," he said.

Garden Notes

Lift Them While They Sleep

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

All last winter and well on into the early spring months, I kept getting letters from home gardeners complaining about their onions in storage. They had wonderful luck in growing this pungent vegetable and lifted a fine crop of firm, good-looking onions, but they didn't keep at all well. Some turned soft and rotted, and the rest grew an assortment of green or gray-whiskery moulds all over them.

These onions rotted in storage because they weren't harvested correctly or at the right time. It isn't too hard to grow good onions, given a really rich soil, some lime and plenty of old manure. Nor is the onion maggot much of a problem any more, now that we have such excellent soil insecticides as aldrin, dieldrin and heptachlor. Actually, the only tricky part of growing onions is finishing them off properly.

For one thing, you mustn't harvest onions while they are still growing, for an onion will "stay put" in storage only if it is fast asleep at the time you lift it. If it is still wide awake and pushing, all kinds of unpleasant things can happen and usually do.

If our onions would only behave the way the garden books say they should, the bulbs would become drowsy in late August or early September, with the tips of the foliage turning yellow and the tops falling down of their own accord. More often, though, the stupid things just keep on growing, standing green and upright and must be put to sleep by main force.

The traditional way of inducing dormancy in an onion is to bend down its foliage, which cuts down the supply of sap to the leaves. The usual method is to go down the rows pushing the tops over with the back of the rake—always toward the north, so the bent-over tops cannot shade the bulbs from the sun.

This doesn't always work out too well. If the tops are brittle and full of sap, they may break and crack at the bend, which is just about the same as pulling the onions too soon—they won't keep in storage. It is best to try it out by hand on a single onion first to see if the topgrowth is limp enough to go over without cracking. If the tops are too brittle, we have another stunt in our bag of tricks.

Go along the rows with a digging fork, thrusting the tines on the slant under each bulb, and pry up very slightly, just enough to break some of the deeper roots. Just a little upward pressure is enough and you can usually feel something give down below—the lower roots snapping under tension. The tops should die down naturally after this operation.

How can you tell when it is safe to lift your onions? By the appearance of the tops. When they are more yellow than green, although not completely dead, you can get on with the job.

But don't just pull them out by the scruff of the neck, as this tends to crack the protective outer skin. Use your digging fork to ease them out of the ground.

After lifting, the bulbs must be ripened, which is done by baking them in the sun. Keep them bone dry—a sun porch or coldframe is ideal—or spread them out on a hard path or driveway or on the roof of your toolshed. Turn them daily, so all sides get a good baking.

The test for ripeness is when the roots and tops crumble off freely when rubbed. At this point the bulbs can be cleaned up and stored in a dry, well-ventilated place. In cleaning, don't remove any skin unless it is loose and broken and handle your onions as carefully as eggs, as one tiny bruise can start a whole bagful to rotting.

They Scream at Anything

By John Crosby

One of the best disc jockeys in the business, according to the experts in that rather specialized line of work, is William B. Williams, a husky-voiced announcer of WNEW, New York, who generally abhors rock 'n' roll and plays pretty good music. The other day I asked him about the dreadful state of modern popular music and received a moderately encouraging answer.

"In spite of all reports to the contrary, there's still a huge audience in the pop field for good music. I play middle of the road rhythm and blues but Fabian I don't play. To me he's a freak in the music business and he admits himself he can't sing. I still label these guys exhibitionists. They're like wrestlers; they put on a show."

The tastes of the teenagers are bewildering, he admitted. "There are only three vocalists you can play without losing your audience—at least that audience—Nat Cole, Sinatra and Johnny Mathis! The kids tolerate Sinatra but that's about all. They feel they discovered Mathis and then handed him on to the adult audience. There aren't any female vocalists who would meet both my approval and theirs. The kids consider Peggy Lee a nice elderly blonde. Polly Bergen did a television rock 'n' roll show and the kids looked at her as if she were their aunt from Toledo."

We fell to deploring the downward spiral of tastes in the young: "People who grew up in the era of the big bands like Benny Goodman, Harry James, the Dorsey Brothers, got used to good singers like Sinatra, Dick Haymes and Helen Forrest. You couldn't sing unless you were good, because they wouldn't stand for it."

As for the present crop of youngsters, Williams doubts that they listen to the voices at all. "I have a theory you could take one group of rock 'n' roll guys, introduce them as the Nosebleeds or some such, rush them onstage and then rush them off, put wigs on them and rush them back on as the Earaches. The kids would never know. They'd scream anyway."

"I get a funny picture about the kids today who are now 16 or 17 going up to a handkerchief 15 years from now and requesting the number that brought them together—'The Battle of New Orleans.'"

He sighed: "Some writers actually go out of their way to write bad songs. They've complained to me that if a song is any good, it won't sell. How long this trend is going to last, I couldn't even begin to guess."

The Singing Commercial

As American as Poison Ivy

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)—The singing commercial, an institution as American as the apple pie or—if you prefer—the rattlesnake or the poison ivy, is reaching for a new pinnacle of dignity.

A local manufacturer of singing commercials is offering a series of workshop seminars in which advertising agencies can send their flannel-bearing personnel for schooling in the loftier qualities of the jingle—music that sells.

Among the subjects to be examined at the seminar are "The Trend Towards Better Jingles" and "Sound Effects Can Be Beautiful." The project is being offered by Forrell, Thomas and Polack Associates, an outfit that has concocted and put on radio and TV more than 60 singing commercials.

"Music and singing can put across any sales message," said Gene Forrell, a partner of the firm. "For example, the next presidential campaign will be the most musical in history."

The Messrs. Forrell, Thomas and Polack, however, are monstrous clever and could be just the ones to put music into politics. They've done it with fire prevention. As a public service to New York City for a fire prevention drive they've written a song.

One of its rhymes goes: "I overloaded an electric socket—and now I'm stone cold dead in de mocket."

The singing commercial that has had the most startling value recently in New York, however, combines two venerable U.S. national institutions—the Old South and Brooklyn—in a way that makes you gasp.

Imagine turning on the radio just after arising in the morning and, even before you can gulp your coffee, you hear coming at you a rousing rendition of one of the most spirited of all songs, "Dixie." But then you suddenly realize that the words have started out:

"You will love to ride on the Brooklyn ferry, the 69th Street Brooklyn ferry—it's fast... save gas... bypass... heavy traffic!"

A common error of the average bridge player is illustrated in today's deal. East's opening three-heart bid succeeded in getting North and South to the wrong game—contract, but West wouldn't let well enough alone.

West's four-heart bid was good, making it still tougher for North to enter the auction, while if the opponents doubled, the penalty would not be severe. West made a gross error when he doubled four spades—the one contract he would have no difficulty in setting. It should have been obvious that North was groping for a spot when he bid four spades; the opponents were bound to have a better contract in one of the minor suits.

North, who, from the outset, was very dubious about his spade suit, took full advantage of the double by bidding four no-trump. This asked his partner to bid his better minor, South dutifully bid five clubs, and West foolishly doubled again.

As you can see, the only problem in the play was finding the diamond queen. South guessed it correctly, and when the smoke cleared, he had won all 13 tricks.

North can play four spades to go down just one trick. So West's double which could gain 100 points at most, actually cost 1,450.

Strikes Out 41 Batters, Doesn't Win

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A softball game that started at 10 p.m. Friday ended on Saturday after dragging through seven hours and 35 innings.

Culver City Comets broke a scoreless tie in the top of the 35th and defeated Escondido, 6-0, in the first round of a state tournament.

Culver City's starting pitcher, Richie Stephens, went 33 innings and struck out 41 batters — all for nothing. Ralph Sutliff, who pitched two innings in relief, was the winner.

Naval Vets escaped the Senior Amateur Baseball League basement last night at Royal Athletic Park by defeating Wakeman-Trimble, 6-5.

Winning run came in the last half of the ninth inning when Wakeman-Trimble catcher Al Heath gave up two successive passed balls.

Wakeman-Trimble pitcher Dave Emery struck out the

Calgarian Half-Way Leader

VANCOUVER (CP) — Burly Doug Silverberg of Calgary blasted his way around picturesque but tricky Marine Drive golf course in three-under-par 68 Monday to grab the lead after the first qualifying round of the Canadian Amateur golf championship.

Silverberg, 26-year-old Calgary life insurance supervisor, was five under after 15 holes. He had trouble on two of the last three holes.

One stroke back was veteran Bob Kidd, 33-year-old liquor company representative from Vancouver. Kidd, a member of Canada's 1958 world and America's cup teams, carded 35-34-69.

No other golfer broke par, but Bobby Panasiuk, 17-year-old junior from Windsor, Ont., and little Phil Brownless of Toronto Scarborough, came in even par.

Par again proved a tough nut for the 146 entries. Over-night rain made the fairways and greens heavy during the morning and early afternoon hours. Drizzle and 61-degree temperatures added further discomfort during mid-day.

But by late afternoon skies cleared and the last third of the field finished in brilliant sunshine.

The scores reflected the change in the weather, with most of the low 70s recorded by late starters.

Behind the Ontario youngsters, each with a 72, were Ron Wiley, 23-year-old B.C. amateur king from Vancouver, and Johnny Johnston, 33-year-old Vancouver real estate salesman.

The pair, together with Kidd, formed three-quarters of British Columbia's championship team which captured interprovincial golfer honors here Saturday.

The fourth member — Bert Ticehurst, 26, of Vancouver — finished with a five-over-par 76.

Best among the 36 Americans entered were Jim Bourne, John Wood and Jay Easterwood, all of Seattle. They had 73s.

Another 43 players ended with scores of 77 or lower, considered good enough — if matched today — to gain one of the 64 berths in the championship flight Wednesday.

The low 64 scorers after today's second 18-hole round began match play Wednesday.

Clearing skies led to speculation that better scores would be made today. In sunny weather during practice rounds last week, most golfers equalled or bettered par.

But the clearing skies also brought the prospect of a westerly. If it has any force, more trouble can be expected.

Low 25 scores:

Doug Silverberg, Calgary 34-34-68.
Bob Kidd, Vancouver 35-34-69.
Phil Brownless, Toronto 36-35-71.

Mr. TRUCK OWNER: IS A SAVING OF $200 WORTH 30 MINUTES OF YOUR TIME?

That's all the time it takes to test-drive the '59 Ford Pickup Six. Matter of fact, just reading this ad could be worth $200.00 to you.

Every '59 Ford Truck Six has new fuel-saving carburetion, and an engine that's years ahead of competition. It's Canada's most modern Six and it can save you hundreds of dollars in gasoline.

You might think all pickups are about the same. Well, they're not. And here's the proof. In careful, impartial comparison tests with the 5 other leading makes of new standard 1/2-ton pickups, '59 Ford pickups averaged a full 25% better gas mileage.

The tests were absolutely fair. They were conducted by North America's foremost independent automotive research firm — an impartial firm that does research for many companies, including some of Ford's competitors.

This research organization bought all the trucks tested. Bought them from U.S. dealers of their own choosing — not from manufacturers.

They broke them in and then tuned each truck to its own manufacturer's specifications. Then they tested them at steady speeds of 30, 45, and 60 miles an hour, and in stop-and-go driving, too — in both moderate city traffic and retail delivery type of operation.

In every test, the '59 Ford pickups averaged more miles per gallon than every other make tested. Against Make "C", Ford's overall advantage was 25.2%. That's enough to save you 104 gallons of gas every 10,000 miles. In four or five years of normal driving this will add up to a saving of $200.00 for you — just on gas!

And Make "C" and Ford 1/2-ton pickup Sixes have the same specifications in Canada as the models that were tested.

A 30-minute visit to a Ford Truck Dealer's will show you that Ford's got the best-riding, best-looking trucks on the market today... and that gas-miser, short-stroke Ford engines will save you money every time you drive.

Victoria's Babe Ruth Team Plays No-Hitter, but Loses

New Westminster Sunday became the first Canadian club to ever reach the "world series" of Babe Ruth baseball but no one knows yet how the Royal City ever managed the feat.

It won three games, each time beating clubs which looked better, with the amazing total of only five hits. Each decision was by one run and each time the winning run was scored with a squeeze bunt.

CHEERED IN VAIN

With about 3,000 fans at Royal Athletic Park cheering in vain for a good Victoria team which fully deserved the trip to Stockton, the B.C. champions climaxed their tortuous climb to success in the cliff-hanger of the week.

They won the regional final,

10, without a base hit as the Victoria team failed in heart-breaking fashion to cash in on three great scoring chances.

Thursday night, New Westminster defeated Oregon, 3-2, although getting only two hits and making three errors. On Saturday, the regional winners got only three hits and again committed three errors but managed to eliminate Washington, 2-1.

Dave Young, a slender left-hander who reportedly has never been beaten since he started his baseball career in the Little Leagues, has to be the standout player of the tournament.

SHARP CONTROL

Poised and exhibiting sharp control which kept the ball on the corners with a regularity that major leaguers could envy, Young had two route-going wins in four days, beating Oregon and Victoria.

He was in plenty of trouble in the late innings after his mates had given him the lead in the top of the fourth, when three bases on balls and a perfect bunt down the first-base line by catcher Mayne Wallace resulted in the only run of the game.

In the Victoria fourth, Bill McAdam and Larry Johnstone walked with one out and pulled a double steal. But with the New Westminster infield playing in, Mike Rivers' low liner was nabbed inches off the ground by Dave Sparks, a left-handed second baseman who completed an inning-ending double play by beating Johnstone to second base.

ANOTHER THREAT

Victoria threatened again in the fifth when a base on balls and a single by Jerry Cooper put runners on third and first with two out but Young settled down to get the next hitter to force Cooper.

In the sixth, Stan Thame singled with one out but was easily cut down when he essayed an ill-advised trip to third base on Johnstone's looping single to rightfield.

It was costly over-eagerness. Rivers' fly to centre-field was dropped and pinch-hitter Dave Woodley walked to load the bags, a base on balls which would have forced in the winning run. However, Young whiffed Wayne Peverett on three pitches after dropping behind, 2-0, in the count and while Victoria got a runner to second with two out in the seventh, there went that coveted trip to California to compete against seven other regional winners.

Easy Marylebone Win Over Victoria Side

England's Marylebone cricket club easily extended its unbeaten record on its trans-Canada tour here Sunday, defeating the Victoria All-Stars by 118 runs in a sparkling display of all-round cricket.

Batting first on an extremely slow pitch, the visitors ran up a total of 193 runs and then dismissed the Victoria side for 75 with 40 minutes to spare.

It was the MCC's eighth victory of the Canadian tour. Two eastern-Canada matches ended in draws and one was rained out.

The Englishmen were all out after batting for three hours and 20 minutes.

Chris Howland, stylish right-handed batsman who is captain-elect of next year's Cambridge University side, highlighted the MCC innings, hitting out aggressively at Victoria bowling. Howland scored 46 runs in 52 minutes before being bowled by Ken Ackroyd.

Bowler Jack Bailey, a right-hander from Essex County, played havoc with Victoria batting and finished up with five wickets for 22 runs after bowling 14 overs.

Rob Wilson, coming in when five wickets were down for 25 runs, was the only Victoria batsman to appear confident against the MCC bowling. Wilson, a former Oxford University player, stroked carefully for 30 runs.

Ackroyd turned in some fine bowling for the Victorians, taking five wickets for 49 runs with his left-hand spinners in 17 overs, which included five maidens.

FOR INDIGESTION

Pepto-Bismal acts directly on stomach and intestinal tract without laxative action... to settle the upset and bring prompt relief, returning digestion to normal. So much more than temporary relief, it tranquillizes irritated stomach and intestinal linings with a corrective "soothing action" that attacks the cause of the upset. Contains no harsh alkalines or saline laxatives which often aggravate the distress.

Briggs Silent About New Job

Former B.C. Power Commission general manager H. Lee Briggs has declined to comment on his appointment to Canada's National Energy Board, or on the board's first meeting which he attended in Ottawa on Friday.

"I really can't comment at all," said Mr. Briggs, on his return from the east. "The meeting, as you know, was the first one for the board and it was organizational," he added.

He also declined comment on newspaper claims that his appointment to the national board was a vindication of the stand he took in denouncing government proposals for power commission financing. He said that his new post would require that he and his family move to Ottawa from their Victoria home at 2780 Lincoln, but added he does not know when the move will take place.

Fires Strike Store, Home But Damage Held Down

Seven Saanich firemen with two trucks controlled a $500 blaze in the attic of the Safeway store at Tillamook and Burnside early yesterday.

AFRICAN MAKEUP

Some 60,000 Europeans share Africa's east coast colony Kenya with 185,000 Asians and Arabs and 6,000,000 Africans.

A department official said the fire started in a pile of packing boxes against the outside of the building. The cause is not known and merchandise was not damaged.

Escaping sparks from a nearby incinerator caused $50 damage to the roof of a home owned by J. F. Chubb, 1025 Craigdarroch.

Flames extinguished the small blaze in minutes.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unlocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Cartier's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Cartier's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Cartier's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat.

Busier Playgrounds Aim of Investigation

Wider use of Greater Victoria parks and playgrounds by more people throughout the year will be studied by the Victoria city council's parks committee.

All possible avenues leading to an expanded recreational program will be explored by parks administrator W. H. Warren in the wake of a committee meeting yesterday.

Ald. M. H. Mooney brought up the idea, with a suggestion that all municipalities and the school board get together to examine possibilities. His idea was to include the school board because of the number of school playgrounds which now are without any organized use after school hours.

City Manager C. C. Wyatt described current programs in Ontario, under which a recreational director co-ordinates a year-round program of activities to include all ages. Committee recommended that Mr. Warren write to the Ontario government and to any other source which might offer suggestions for setting up similar programs for Victoria, if not for Greater Victoria.

Argentine Ship Cancels Visit

Scheduled mid-September visit to Victoria of the Canadian-built Argentine naval attack transport Bahia Thetis has been cancelled.

The navy said the ship will now proceed directly to Vancouver for a visit Sept. 18 to 21.

Hope Is Their Only Future

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NAGASAKI, Japan (AP)—

A bomb survivors now can get free medical care from the government. But to some, it is a tantalizing mirage.

When they fall ill, they cannot afford to leave their jobs and stay in hospitals. They have no sick pay benefits. Their families would starve.

To make matters worse, unemployment runs high and some have a feeling of hopelessness that they are doomed if symptoms of "radiation sickness" appear.

Citizens and officials alike can only hope the government will step forward with funds to support families of sick workers who are the sole support.

But such proposals raise the familiar dilemma of choosing only those who really need the aid.

Provision of free medical care for A-bomb survivors ranks with many survivors of bombings in other cities, who suffered badly but receive no similar relief.

In most cases, doctors cannot tell if an individual is becoming ill now has illness due to delayed radiation effects or natural causes, and aging. But, as survivors of the bomb, they get free care.

Whatever may be the long-range health hazards of radiation, the atom bomb blasts at Nagasaki and Hiroshima 14 years ago have planted the seed of social and economic troubles the government must contend with today. This last of four articles tells how they affect life in the rebuilt cities.

How many people are sick and unable to afford time in hospitals is not known.

Governor Katsuya Sato of Nagasaki prefecture estimates there were 140,000 survivors, of whom 82,000 have registered.

Some didn't register because they didn't want to be classified as survivors, for fear of prejudices about marriage or jobs which that might entail, Sato thinks. Others have no physical complaints.

Survivors are defined as those who were within six miles of the bomb centre, or who came into the city within two weeks and so might have been exposed to some residual radiation.

Radioactive fallout dusted only one area very heavily, and some of the people there have reduced white and red cell counts, or reduced liver function.

Unemployment among survivors is high, as elsewhere in Japan, but again there for peace in both Nagasaki and Hiroshima.

Says Gov. Sato: "There is a strong desire to forget the past, look to the future, and build a city of peace."

Confused Jerry Turns Promise Into Boredom

By CYLDE GILMOUR

At one point in the rambling story unfolded in "Don't Give Up the Ship," a girl officer in the United States Navy is laughing her head off over some remarks just made to her by a confused male lieutenant in the same noble service.

Suddenly the lieutenant (Jerry Lewis) looks puzzled and asked: "What are you laughing at?"

ENSIGN BENSON

The ship officer (Dina Merrill), whose neatly rhyming name is Ensign Benson, reflects for a moment and replies:

"Oh, nothing, really. Nothing at all."

Candidly, that's how most of "Don't Give Up the Ship" now showing at the Capitol, strikes me, too, although the cackle-voiced Lewis as usual comes up with a few scattered flashes of swift and efficient clowning.

But the flashes are much too scarce to atone for the long stretches of utter boredom in a 90-minute feature which begins quite promisingly and then fails to do justice to its amusing basic idea.

Several years after the Second World War, the navy's top brass sizes up with dismay that our hero somehow never turned back to the service the destroyer-escort he briefly commanded after the Japanese surrender. He can't remember what he did with the ship. His problem: find it within 10 days or else pay for it, a sum exceeding $5,000,000.

THIN ROUTINE

The fruitful situation is thinly developed by a battery of scriptwriters and directed in routine fashion by Norman Taurog.

The day I saw the film there were hundreds of children in the audience. They did a lot of laughing, a fact which perhaps suggests that the picture is mainly intended for the youngsters.

ANCIENT JOKE

But in that sense I fail to understand why so much of it deals—leeringly and heavily—with the ancient stag-party joke about the anxious bridegroom (Lieut. Lewis, no less) whose honeymoon is endlessly interrupted. Maybe the old-fashioned phrase "bedtime story" now has a more sophisticated meaning for the kids.

City 'Struck Out' as Hosts To Babe Ruth Players

Victoria tourist officials were accused yesterday of "striking out" by not providing a full program of entertainment for visiting Babe Ruth League baseball players from the Pacific Northwest.

The charge was levelled by Stanich Coun. Ainslie Worthington, who attended some of the games played Thursday to Sunday.

"These boys are the tourists of the future," he said last night. "They should have gone home just busting to get back to Victoria for their holidays next year."

"And each boy would have brought back at least two adults—his parents."

Reunion Next Week

Sourdoughs Honest About Happy Time

When International Sourdoughs meet here for three days next week they will hold one general business session just to keep the record straight, "but frankly we don't expect very many to go to it," international chairman R. Gordon Lee said yesterday.

"We hold it just to keep things democratic," said the man who is drawing up the program for the Yukoners' 28th annual reunion.

Some 300 to 350 sourdoughs are expected to attend the convention in the Empress Hotel. Mr. Lee said, sourdoughs don't meet to accomplish business, "but to recall old times, renew acquaintances and have a good time."

Convention opens on Aug. 27, the day for registration. Scenic bus trips to Genoa Bay at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. will be highlights of the second day and at 3 p.m. there will be a women's tea at the Glenis Hotel and a men's stag at the Empress Hotel.

At 7:30 p.m. there will be northern movies at the Empress, including "The Trail of '98," and at 9 p.m. the grand ball will be held.

Vast Victory Claimed By Reds in Laos War

TOKYO (UPI)—The North Vietnamese Communists claimed Monday that Red-led rebels in northern Laos wiped out 13 government posts, forced loyal troops to withdraw from nine others and inflicted "hundreds" of casualties on the defending forces.

A North Viet Nam news agency report claimed "vast areas" of North Laos, including the whole of the Muong Son district, were captured from Laotian royal troops.

In Washington, U.S. Navy chief admiral Arleigh Burke told newsmen the Laotian crisis was "very serious."

Asked if the U.S. navy might be called into action in the Southeast Asian area, Burke said: "It might. It's possible."

Laotian government officials confirmed that fighting was going on in the northern provinces but said it was "only sporadic."

In London, Britain asked Russia, its co-chairman at a conference five years ago that ended the Indochina war, to support a proposal to send United Nations observers to newly-troubled Laos.

Laos already has proposed that UN observers be sent to investigate the pro-Communist revolt which flared last month.

Question in Montreal

Polio Epidemic Due to Pollution?

MONTREAL (UPI)—A Montreal doctor has suggested that polluted water may be a factor in the polio epidemic which hit 22 new victims in the city and surrounding area Monday.

Dr. Paul Lariviere, chief of the department of contagious diseases in St. Justine's Hospital, which has 111 children's cases on its hands and is prepared to take care of 200 more, said some doctors suspect that the rivers and lakes around Montreal Island may be polluted. Most of the 273 cases have come from water-side areas. He said, however, that the epidemic appeared to be leveling off, and may decline in a week or so.

Pekinese Swims Seven Miles

SOUTHWICK, England (AP)—A fisherman found a cheerful little Pekinese churning through the waters of the English Channel three miles from shore.

"I couldn't believe my ears when I heard a dog bark," said angler Charlie Bailey. Bailey retrieved the peke from the briny and took it home. It was claimed Monday by Mrs. Irene Coleman of Thornton Heath.

She said its name was Miracle, and it apparently fell overboard about 10 miles out.

Death Hovering Near as Cars Crash on Tunnel Hill

Death was hovering close to a quarter-mile stretch of the Malahat at Tunnel Hill, Sunday, but eight persons hurt in two accidents there all escaped serious injury. Hurt when car, right, crashed into rocky ditch and stopped 20 feet short of solid rock wall were Peter A. Wonnemburg, 20, the driver; Charles Van Buskirk, 19, both of HMCS Naden; and

Helen Wonnemburg, 18, sister of the driver, and Margaret Grieg, 19, 2985 Admirals. Both girls belong to the RCAF. All four victims were taken to Naden Hospital from the early-morning accident. Four others hurt when cars, centre and left, crashed head on late Sunday were Alan Eddy, 920 Brock, driver of one car and James Modeste, driver of the other car, and his passengers, Mrs. Helen Jimmy and Mrs. Louisa Harry, all of Koksilah. They were reported in fairly good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night. The two air force women injured in the earlier accident were stationed at Mayo RCAF Station and were on their way to Comox. (William Boucher photos.)

Skindiver Drowns In Saanichton Bay

... condition fair

Coroner's inquiry will be conducted today into the death of a young Brentwood amateur skindiver who drowned in 125 feet of water at Saanichton Bay Sunday. Rescue attempts were delayed when fellow divers ran out of air.

The diver, Francis "Frank" Albert Dignan, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dignan, 1187 Dignan, was found 40 minutes after he was last seen, 200 yards from shore.

FACE DOWN

His brother-in-law and tutor, Robert Lee, 961 Marchant, said he found him lying face down on the ocean bed just off Saanichton Spit.

Water had apparently penetrated Dignan's "dry" rubber suit and weighed the 170-pound diver down so he couldn't move, the brother-in-law said.

The drowning victim was employed as a truck driver by Yarrows Ltd.

His wife Sybil gave birth to a daughter, Susan, two weeks ago. It was the young couple's first child.

The young diver, only a novice, accompanied Lee and six friends on the skin-diving expedition off Saanichton Spit at the northeastern tip of Saanichton Bay.

He wanted to try for cod fish and was warned not to go too far alone.

"I loaned him my equipment and he went off with a friend and another diver loaned me his tank with limited air and I followed," the brother-in-law said.

"Frank apparently didn't hear when I yelled I was coming too. I cruised around just diving about 200 yards away."

CALL FOR HELP

"He didn't realize anything was wrong until a fisherman told him 'a diver' had surfaced, 'yelled for help,' and gone down again."

"I circled but I found no trace of him and my air was very low," Lee said.

The group had all expended their air tanks and were forced to abandon rescue attempts while one diver went for more air.

"When the new air supply came I went down deep and found him lying on the bottom," the brother-in-law said.

"I pulled him to shore and artificial respiration was attempted by the other divers and the Central Saanich resuscitator crew, but it was too late."

'GOT PANICKY'

The young diver was told several times how to jettison his suit and equipment if anything happened "but I guess he got panicky and didn't know what to do," the others said.

His suit possibly got snagged on some undersea object or by a spear gun he carried, they speculated.

CHOKING THEORY

"I noticed his mouthpiece was floating free so he could have choked on water getting under the face plate," Mr. Lee added.

The drowned diver was wearing a regulation aqua-lung, with 70 cubic foot air tank and 20-pound lead belt.

He had a full tank of air and it is designed to last 20 to 25 minutes.

Funeral will be held at Brentwood United Church, Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

An inquiry into the death will be held "sometime today," coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said last night.

All novice skin divers who join clubs in Victoria are instructed in a special safety course on how to jettison equipment, experienced diver Harry Cross said last night.

Constable D. F. MacDonald said the Central Saanich volunteer fire department had to carry resuscitator gear the last quarter-mile to the beach.

New Ferries To Put End To Long Waits

Long waits for Washington and B.C. mainland-bound ferries from Vancouver Island should become a thing of the past next year, Mayor Percy Scurrell said yesterday.

His statement came on the heels of a Daily Colonist story on Sunday that U.S.-bound tourists have had to wait up to seven hours to catch Washington State Ferries sailings here.

LOTS OF ROOM

He said completion of the two B.C. government 108-car ferries next spring will end the need for a reservations system to end long waits.

"There should be lots of room on all the ferries," said the mayor.

Meanwhile, he added, issuance of "sorry-for-the-inconvenience" placards by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau should help to placate this year's visitors.

WONT CONSIDER

He said Washington State Ferries officials "just won't consider a reservations system" as a means to eliminate the long delays for the balance of this season.

Meanwhile, he added, issuance of "sorry-for-the-inconvenience" placards by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau should help to placate this year's visitors.

The drowned diver was wearing a regulation aqua-lung, with 70 cubic foot air tank and 20-pound lead belt.

Polio Strikes Mother Who 'Neglected' Shots

DUNCAN—A 26-year-old mother of four who "neglected" to get Salk vaccine shots is in Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria—Vancouver Island's first polio victim this year.

The case is the second in the province this year. The mother is Mrs. Verne Erickson, a resident on Maple Bay Road, about a mile and a half east of here.

Doctors reported she was not in critical condition yesterday, but that she had been in an iron lung since she was rushed to Victoria, Friday.

"We should have got the shots, but we just let it ride," said her husband, a logging truck driver who has been working at Britannia Beach.

"The kids got theirs, two of them got them all and the two others their first shots," said her husband.

"We were up there and then there was the strike. There was nothing doing so she and the kids came home in the first week in July," said Mr. Erickson.

He said the family's water supply is from a well on the property which is chlorinated. "She didn't get the bug from it," he said.

Mrs. Erickson was sent to hospital by Dr. Douglas McCauley and put in King's Daughters' Hospital a week ago today. Mrs. Erickson was rushed to Victoria in a portable respirator when her illness was diagnosed as polio.

Only other case of polio this year in British Columbia was in Vancouver in June. There were 12 cases of the disease in the province last year.

IWA Finding

'Union Funds Intact'

COURTENAY—More than 400 IWA members yesterday attended the largest mass meeting in the history of Local 1363 here, called to hear a special report on charges of misappropriation of union funds.

Jack Moore, regional IWA vice-president, told reporters following the closed meeting that investigation showed "all the union funds are intact and that there was no misappropriation of funds."

Moore said, all officers of the local were instructed to "carry on as they have done in the past." He was commenting on earlier reports that president Ben Falk and vice-president Earl Kemp had resigned following charges by a rebel group of 60 IWA members.

Walter Allen, president of Fort Alberni IWA Local 185, a member of the three-man commission appointed to investigate charges of misappropriation, said he was satisfied there would have been no opportunity to return any funds which might have been misappropriated.

Jake Epp, union financial secretary, had a curt "no comment" following the meeting.

Allen said the 400 members gave "very emphatic" approval to a resolution that they are just as determined to win this strike today as they were on July 6 when it started.

"You can take my word for it," said Moore. "The IWA is not prepared to capitulate. When we go back to work it will be with a new contract."

Big Welcome Home

Pretty Vivi Gets Name in Lights

Canada's second prettiest girl returned to her native Victoria in triumph last night to find more than 150 persons awaiting her at a city hall steps reception—and her name in lights along the Causeway.

Vivi Petersen, fresh from capturing number two spot in the Miss Canada contest at Hamilton, Ontario, arrived at Patricia Bay airport at 7:45 p.m.

A cavalcade of 11 cars with a police escort pulled up at city hall at 8:25 p.m.

Riding with the sparkling Miss Victoria were her two princesses, Patricia Pye and Valerie Perkin, and her parents.

Including Miss Petersen and her two princesses, plus Hanne Kelm, 2711 Quadra, four of the original eight Miss Victoria contestants were on hand.

Official welcome home came from Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurrell.

In true-blue beauty contest tradition the radiant Vivi shed a few tears as the mayor extended his welcome.

Following the ceremony, during which she presented to the mayor the cup she was awarded for coming second in the Miss Canada contest, she was driven home in an official car past Causeway lights which blazoned "Well Done Vivi" against the night sky.

Reeve 'Hot' Over Theft

Reeve A. C. Wurtele was up in arms last night over a recent theft of a safety rope from Kinsmen-Gorge pool.

Police later recovered the 100-foot-long, inch-thick rope, but it had been cut into three pieces and about 50 cedar floats specially made to hold it up were missing.

Reeve Wurtele said "that really irritates me. I'm really hot under the collar."

A juvenile is being charged.

Stubborn Grass Fire Halted Short of Home

Saanich firemen used up tons of water in a 4½-hour battle yesterday against a fire that swept across more than two acres of tall, dry grass near the Cedar Hill Golf Course.

The fire threatened to engulf one hilltop home near Holloway Street but firemen halted its advance within feet of the structure after flames raced up three sides of the hill.

Two trucks and seven men answering the call about 3:30 p.m. didn't return to the fire-hall until 8 p.m. More than 1,400 feet of hose were used.

Firemen said they found that a lot of moss on the ground kept smouldering and giving off sparks when the wind picked up. Wind carried the sparks to other patches of dry grass.

Child Flung 10 Feet By Car's Impact

A six-year-old Victoria girl was in only fair condition last night after colliding with a car when running across Bay Street near Douglas yesterday.

Little Marlyn Essler, 2325 McBride, suffered a fractured skull in the accident with a California car driven by Robert S. Johnson, of Enino.

A witness, Mrs. Betty McGuire, 2620 Margate, said "the little girl was standing on the curb and all of a sudden she ran into the car."

Still shocked by the accident, Mrs. McGuire said the child was thrown about 10 feet back to the curb.

"Another little girl was with her but she didn't run out."

Willows Becoming 'Little Coney Island'

Oak Bay council is considering passage of a bylaw which will give police more control over the municipality's beaches.

Willows Beach in particular was described as a "little Coney Island" where athletes play lacrosse, golf, football and baseball among the crowds, water-skiers land and take off near small children and dogs run loose stealing lunches.

Request for a bylaw with "teeth" in it forbidding such activities was made by the board of police commissioners following a rash of complaints. Minor offences would be easier to deal with under a bylaw, said Oak Bay Police Chief Robert Smith.

Chief Smith said Willows Beach is "getting like a little Coney Island."

Agreeing that a "gap" exists in laws controlling activities at beaches, Reeve George Murdoch told council that motorcycles and cars had been known to race on the beach at low tide.

Close to Trash Can Isn't Good Enough

Litterbugs with poor or careless aim may find themselves subjects of close police interest.

Ald. Lily Wilson yesterday asked for some "teeth" in the bylaw which prohibits litter in city parks. She had seen, she said, several trash cans surrounded with litter, and watched maintenance men spend an hour simply picking up the odds and ends and putting them in the nearby can.

"Last year," said Ald. Wilson, "litter-clearing cost the board $10,000."

More signs will go up in the parks, reminding park users that commissionaires are empowered to lay information against offenders—and will do so.

Tourists to Get 'Gagliardi' Signs

Local tourist officials will borrow a leaf from the book of B.C.'s ebullient Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi in order to placate irate tourists who have had to wait overlong for U.S.-bound ferries.

A "Sorry-for-the-Inconvenience" type of poster similar to Mr. Gagliardi's highway construction signs will be distributed to occupants of cars from outside the province.

The notices will read as follows:

"If you have had any inconveniences—or delays—when visiting Victoria, we are sorry."

"Three large automobile ferries are now being constructed for next year."

"These vessels will operate from Victoria to Port Angeles and from Sidney to the mainland and will provide about 800 additional spaces daily for automobiles in each direction and at least six additional round-trip services."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN: As I sit here looking at my husband's beautiful and expensive dentures afloat in a glass of water, they seem to be saying, "I won—and you lost."

My husband is a handsome man in his late 40s. With teeth he looks 30. Without teeth he looks 70. I've begged, pleaded, cried, stormed, threatened, and screamed but nothing works. He won't even wear them when he eats. He says his teeth hurt and he refuses to suffer just to please me.

I've talked to his dentist and he says he can't adjust the teeth unless my husband comes to his office. He assured me it would take only three days to become accustomed to the teeth, and almost everyone has some trouble at first.

Please don't cast this letter aside as a joke. This is no laughing matter. I need help.

HELEN.

Dear Helen: Clearly that mule you're married to doesn't care a hoot about the way he looks, so you'd better attack the problem from another angle.

Ask the dentist for pamphlet material describing the physical damage caused by toothlessness. It is essential to a healthy digestive system that food be properly chewed.

If he reads the dentist's material and still refuses to put the choppers in his head, remind him to keep his insurance up. His life expectancy is decreasing.

Spectre from Past

DEAR ANN: When I was 12 my folks had more kids than they could feed, so I lived with aunts, cousins, who never would have me. Naturally, I was in everybody's way and no one cared what I did.

At 14 I got mixed up with a boy. I was lucky not to land in a home for unwed mothers. The boy was 19 and treated me nice. I was so starved for a kind word I did things I had no business doing. He left town a year later and we lost track of each other.

This was 21 years ago and today I'm married and have a good husband and four kids. Last week I got the shock of my life. My old boy friend was introduced to me at work as the brother-in-law of our department head. I know he recognized me but he pretended not to. He just gave me a knowing wink.

I'm worried sick he'll tell the department what he knows. Shall I beat him to it or get in touch with him and ask him to keep his mouth shut?

BAD PAST.

Dear B.P.: Keep your mouth shut, and unless he's an awful skunk he'll do the same.

Errant Dad

DEAR ANN: I'm 15, the oldest of four children. It's common knowledge that our father is chasing with the blonde cashier who works in a parking lot near his office. Several kids at school have seen them together, and I've even heard the neighbors discussing it.

Mom goes about her business as if everything is perfect. When Dad doesn't come home for dinner she says "he's working very hard for us." This kills me. Should I tell her?

SHEBA.

Dear Sheba: Say nothing. If it's all over town, your mother knows. She's putting on a good front for you kids. I think you should have a few thousand words with your Dad; however, lay it on the line.

'Bubbling Over with Happiness'

Rockefellers Joyful

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (UPI)—Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller flew here yesterday "bubbling over with happiness" to attend the wedding of her son Steven and Anne Marie Rasmussen, the beautiful blonde who once worked as a kitchen maid in her New York home.

The bride-to-be and her future mother-in-law shook hands shyly when they met at nearby Kjevik, while a beaming Steven looked on. Then they suddenly embraced. If there was any ice, it quickly was broken.

(In New York, Gov. Nelson

A. Rockefeller announced he would leave for Norway Thursday night with his daughter Anne. Other members of the Rockefeller clan will have left to attend the Saturday wedding before then, he said.)

At London Airport during a stopover, Mrs. Rockefeller called Anne Marie "a lovely girl." In answer to a question she said: "Anne Marie was with us in the United States for two years and we liked her very much. There's no reason for us to be opposed to the wedding."

She said she had with her some family mementos for the bride, but no wedding present. Mrs. Rockefeller would not say what the "very personal" mementos were.

Mrs. Rockefeller said she and the governor were "bubbling over with happiness for Steven and Anne Marie—we could not be more pleased."

"My future daughter-in-law is a wonderful girl," she said. "I think the young couple will be wonderfully happy."

Women's 'Political Shyness' Dodging of Responsibilities

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Lillian M. Toward, an outspoken lawyer-housewife, says Canadian women are indifferent about assuming responsibility for their country's government, but they should influence political decisions.

Writing in The Canadian Liberal, Mrs. Toward tempers her statements with sympathy for the housewife's problems in keeping up with the outside scene.

But there are few excuses for women's "political shyness," says Mr. Toward, a practicing lawyer at Baddeck, N.S. Of the idea that women keep out of politics because men think a woman's place is in the home, she says that in most communities men seem happy to relinquish, or share, public duties with women. The education system could be the culprit in not placing more emphasis on the importance of taking public office, she adds.

What's Cooking?

Fish for Everyone

By LOUISE MOORE

The population of the world may be growing by leaps and bounds but no one need go hungry as long as we have the wealth of fish that is in the sea, our lakes and streams. Canada abounds in fresh and salt water fish. There are more than 50 different species of fish and shellfish commercially caught in marine and fresh water areas of this country.

We think you will enjoy the recipes we have for you today—some of them prepared and tested by Canada's Department of Fisheries' home economists and they are really good.

SALMON CROWN SALAD

Drain 1 (7½ ounce) can red salmon—the bright red salmon looks so pretty on the plate. Break the salmon into good-sized chunks. Combine 1½ cups cooked chilled peas—fresh or frozen, 1 cup coarsely diced cucumber and 1 cup shredded lettuce. Toss lightly with 2 tbsps. French dressing until vegetables are well coated with the dressing. Place in lettuce lined salad bowls or in lettuce cups arranged on individual serving plates. Top with chunks of salmon. Serve with a garnish of cress and extra mayonnaise. Serves 6.

TUNA CONFETTI MOLD

Soften 2 tbsps. plain gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Dissolve in 1 (10-ounce) can chicken consommé heated. Stir to blend and chill until partially set. Stir in 2 (7-ounce) cans tuna drained and flaked, ½ cup each, diced celery, green pepper, and pimiento. Whip ½ cup whipping cream and fold in gently at the last. Pour into a 1½ quart mold and chill until firm. Serves 10. Nice for a cold buffet.

SALMON MOUSSE SALAD

Soak 1 (1½ cup) plain gelatin in ½ cup cold water five minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Whip into ½ cup mayonnaise. Add 2 tsp. lemon juice. Fold in ½ cup heavy cream whipped and add 2 cups salmon flaked, removing any skin and bone, ½ cup stuffed olives sliced, ½ cup finely shredded carrot and a dash salt. Pour into individual molds. Place in refrigerator and chill until firm. Unmold and place in a bed of crisp lettuce cups, garnish with cress and ripe olives and green pepper strips. Top with mayonnaise. Serves 6. A very delicious salad is one of Canadian sardines combined with potato salad ingredients—made according to your own recipe. Tops in nutrition too.

GET YOUR GAS FURNACE FROM DARLING'S
EV 4-6151

AUTOMATIC GAS HEAT IS YOUR BEST FURNACE BUY

ECONOMY with GAS

You pay only for the gas you use—after you use it. Installation costs are lower, and a gas furnace has a long life. You don't pay for storage bins or tanks, or tie up money in idle fuel.

AUTOMATIC heat with GAS

With an automatic-controlled thermostat the heat turns itself down at night, at whatever hour you wish. Then, at the time you want in the morning, the furnace starts warming your home before you get up.

CONVENIENCE with GAS

No furnace to tend morning and night, no ashes to haul, no delivery problem. You never have to think about calling and ordering more fuel—never have to worry that your supply of gas might run out.

FASTER heat with GAS

A flick of the finger—and gas responds instantly! Gas is ready to burn the instant it reaches your furnace. You get heat the moment you want it!

DEPENDABILITY with GAS

Regardless of the weather, your gas supply is steady, dependable. There are no bad weather delivery delays. Cold snaps don't catch you unprepared. Gas is right there, every day, every time you need it.

QUIET, CLEAN heat with GAS

Automatic gas is exceptionally quiet, important where the heating unit is on the same floor as your living quarters. And your home stays cleaner, has less dust and grime, requires less decorating.

Complaining IWA Men Refuse to Retract

DUNCAN — Two IWA members who complained in a television interview about not being able to get strike relief, refused to retract their statements when they were called before the executive of local 1-80, here.

Armand Didier, 19, speaking for himself and his partner, Dale Carl, 22, said yesterday, "We didn't do anything to hurt the union, so we see no reason for having to change our views."

Didier's application has also been approved by the strike committee and he will receive relief for the week ending Saturday. Carl has already received the money.

"We just believe union members should receive an equal share of the money until it is all gone," said Didier.

tise it," said a white-bearded priest who would not give his name for publication because "I am the voice of the people."

More than 600 attended religious ceremonies in the Hillcrest Temple here, almost half the Sikh people in Canada. They came from Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster and other B.C. coast points.

At 7.30 a.m. they were welcomed with the familiar Punjabi saying, "Sat Sir Akal"—truth is eternal.

They followed the suggestions of the "Gurus," their spiritual leaders, who meditate on and pass on the word of Garu Gobind Singh (1666-1708), the tenth and last high Guru of the Sikhs.

TEMPLE FILLED

The little two-storey temple was filled for the two-hour-long service. And for most of the day during speeches and poetry readings.

They left once in a while to get a meatless snack of boiled vegetables, fruits, plenty of butter and curds, milk, whey, and roti, their unleavened bread.

Outside the temple the men took part in a sports program. Some lifted weights, played volleyball or soccer.

CUP RETAINED

Hillcrest volleyball players beat Port Alberni for the fourth year, and retained the Khalsa Diwan Society Cup. Hefty Chum Berar, 22, of Vancouver, beat six opponents when he lifted 235 pounds and pressed 215.

That is how they celebrated the anniversary of the day when Lord Mountbatten, then governor-general of India, turned over control of the government to Jawaharlal Nehru in New Delhi on Aug. 15, 1947, ending a pacifist "war" that had lasted 17 years.

Atom Mishap in 1957 Set Work Back Year

LONDON (Reuters) — An accident in 1957 at a plutonium plant in northern England set back Britain's program for the peaceful development of atomic energy by more than a year, a government committee reported Monday.

The committee said the effects of the accident, which scattered radioactive waste over the countryside, were still being felt.

The accident caused "a certain pessimism about the prospects of the system." It became harder to recruit scientists for work on Britain's fast-reactor program.

The accident in October, 1957, was caused by overheating of an air-cooled reactor pile at Windscale. This released radioactive waste which affected milk from farms in neighboring areas. The milk had to be dumped into the sea. The reactor had to be permanently closed.

Death Dive Closes Interview

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lieut. George Hill of the Vancouver fire department was sitting in a third-storey hotel room Sunday interviewing John Baze, 67, about a recent mattress fire in the room.

Suddenly the elderly man jumped up, handed Hill his room key and said, "To hell with it."

He walked across the hall, handed Vera Matthews two 50-cent pieces and told her: "I won't need it any more."

Then he made a short run and dived out the open window to his death.

Sorrow Turns To Joy

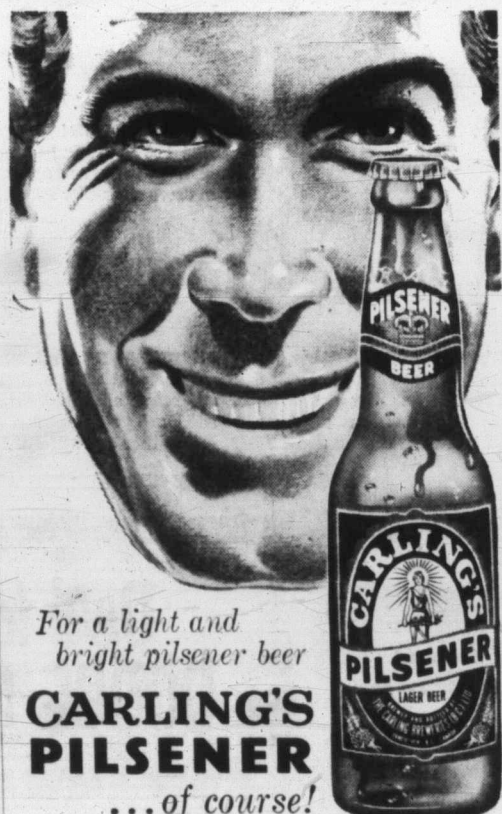

WESTPORT, Mass. (AP) — John Santos, 34-year-old farmer and father of three, took his wife, Clarice, to a hospital Monday after she unexpectedly gave birth to a still-born child.

Saddened because they had lost their baby but comforted by word that his wife was all right, he went back to his farm.

Then came word to hurry to the hospital—he had three new sons.

"I feel pretty good about it all," he said. "A little excited, I guess."

All three surviving boys of the quadruplets were reported doing well.

Power Failure Snarls New York's Millions

NEW YORK (AP)—A gigantic power failure, worst of its kind in New York's history, Monday knocked out service to some 500 square blocks of homes, apartments, hospitals, museums and business establishments.

The break was confined to the area on both sides of Central Park where 500,000 persons reside. But its effects extended to the far reaches of the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn.

Millions of people were caught in the snarl that grew out of the power failure. The misery of 89-degree heat and murderous humidity was compounded by tieups above and below the blistering streets of the city.

Subway service on the Independent Line—fastest and finest in the city—was halted completely in midtown for a time. When it resumed, trains inched along, motorists guided by lantern signals from sentinels aloft in the dark tunnels. This cut service by half during the rush hour, creating vast underground jams of steaming humanity.

Hospital patients were operated on by surgeons working beneath emergency lights. Iron lungs were operated manually to keep imprisoned victims alive.

Traffic lights went out, leaving bewildered motorists without guidance at some of the busiest intersections in the world.

Elevators stranded people between floors when the power went off.

The burdensome heat was the cause of the mess. Demands on the power network burned out seven feeder lines.

This so increased the burden on 13 other feeder lines in the network that they had to be shut down lest irreparable damage result.

The affected area encompasses some of the stateliest apartment buildings in the city, some of its finest restaurants, most of its museums and several of its hospitals.

Extra police were assigned to the afflicted area to guard against looting on darkened streets. Few shopkeepers were able to keep open after dark for lack of power facilities.

Some banks in the area were unable to lock their vaults for the night, because the ponderous doors are manipulated by electricity. Extra guards were assigned to the institutions.

Dollars 'Steered' To German Homes

Ship Rites Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—The $3,000,000 department of transport icebreaker Simon Fraser will be christened today by Mrs. E. D. Fulton, wife of the minister of justice. The craft will be based in Victoria as a supply, search and rescue vessel.

KAISERSLAUTERN, Germany (Reuters)—A special joint West German-American commission met here Monday to investigate allegations that millions of dollars worth of American government material and labor have been used to build and repair houses and private roads for Germans.

A United States army investigator told a reporter: "This has been going on for six years."

"We have about 100 suspects in the Kaiserslautern post repair and utility section who most likely built 28 private homes and three private roads with stolen material from the Kaiserslautern repair and utility depot."

A spokesman at the U.S. army European headquarters in Heidelberg said Friday it also had been alleged that army employees who reported irregularities to their superiors had been demoted or discharged.

Another 707 Jet Forced to Return

NEW YORK (UPI)—The third commercial jet airplane emergency in three days occurred yesterday when a Pan American World Airways Boeing 707 developed hydraulic trouble and was forced to return here shortly after taking off with 122 passengers for South America.

The plane landed safely at Idlewild International Airport with emergency equipment lined up along the runway.

Sunday, a Qantas Boeing 707 jet with 82 persons aboard was forced to return to Australia when it developed engine trouble.

The first crash of a U.S. commercial jet occurred Saturday. Five crewmen were killed.

Attempt to End Lumber Dispute

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks stepped into the coast lumber strike yesterday by appointing economics expert Dr. John J. Deutsch of Vancouver as mediator.

The move was welcomed by spokesmen for both management and union involved in the six-week-old strike which has brought B.C.'s major industry to a full stop and left 25,000 coastal workers idle.

Dr. Deutsch, former professor of economics at the University of British Columbia, conducted last year's investigation into the amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipalities.

Both Joe Morris, IWA district president, and J. M. Billings, manager of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., immediately notified Mr. Wicks of their appreciation of the move and promised the fullest co-operation.

Dr. Deutsch was appointed a one-man industrial inquiry commission under section 44 of the Labor Relations Act, which gives the labor minister power to "do such things as seem calculated to maintain or secure industrial peace and to promote conditions favorable to settlement of disputes."

He has been given 14 days in which to investigate the situation and report back to Mr. Wicks. The time may be extended at Mr. Wicks' discretion.

Mr. Billings promised all relevant information will be supplied to Dr. Deutsch.

"WE HAVE FAITH..."

"We have faith in the soundness of our position and are confident that Dr. Deutsch... will have due regard for the position of a highly-exposed and competitive industry like ours, as contrasted with sheltered local industries," he said.

Mr. Morris said the IWA has been "ready at all times to enter discussions promising a satisfactory settlement of the dispute."

Majority recommendation of a conciliation board approved before the strike the offer made by management for an increase equivalent to seven per cent over two years in the $1.72 hourly wage.

The union has asked for a 20-per-cent increase but is reported to have reduced this to 12-per cent during negotiations.

LIBERTY, N.Y. (UPI)—A mail pouch containing $142,000 in currency has disappeared on a 100-mile train run between here and Hoboken, N.J., police said Monday.

Joseph Ersch, president of the Sullivan County Bank in Liberty, said the money was sent to the Federal Reserve Bank in New York by registered mail Aug. 6, but the bank never received it.

He Missed

Innocent Gunman Hunted

VANCOUVER (CP)—A teen-aged gunman who police say is desperate because he thinks he has killed a man was being hunted in the Fraser Valley Monday night.

A score of RCMP officers were looking for a youth who injured four persons by firing through the window of a CPE train, came within inches of shooting to death a sleeping Indian and fired three other fusillades in the area.

RCMP broadcast a radio appeal to a 19-year-old youth from Agassiz, B.C., telling him to give himself up because he didn't kill the Indian he shot at.

Police said he shot at Peter John, 19, of Hope, at 10 p.m. Sunday. The bullet spun into the mattress of John's bed only inches from his body.

A few minutes earlier, a rifle shot shattered the window of a self-propelled CPR diesel car near John's home. Spraying glass hit four passengers who were later treated for slight cuts at a nearby hospital.

Police said that about the same time a lock was shot off the door of a CPR stationhouse in the same area.

Officers suspect the youth whom they are hunting is jealous of Peter John.

AYLMER, Que. (UPI)—Mayor Rene Thérien called an emergency civic meeting to combat what he called "a reign of terror" by the town's juveniles.

He said a meeting of parents, councillors and clergy will consider steps to meet the "urgent" problem.

Thérien said that "young vandals" had caused an estimated $1,500 in property damage to the recreation centre in the last year. Yesterday alone he said, there were five street fights near the building.

Six Easy Steps to Fame

OTTAWA (CP)—A rookie Ottawa policeman has earned himself lasting fame on his first tour of beat duty.

The rookie, spared identification by his superiors who told the story Monday, was checking in downtown Ottawa when he found a store door unlocked. He phoned the owner, who came and locked up.

At the end of his shift, the constable began to make out the standard "unsecured property" form reporting the incident. All went well until he came to the heading, "Steps taken."

He wrote: "Six. Three in. Nothing wrong. Three out."

Death Hovering Near as Cars Crash on Tunnel Hill

Death was hovering close to a quarter-mile stretch of the Malahat at Tunnel Hill, Sunday, but eight persons hurt in two accidents there all escaped serious injury. Hurt when car, right, crashed into rocky ditch and stopped 20 feet short of solid rock wall were Peter A. Wonnemburg, 20, the driver; Charles Van Buskirk, 19, both of HMCS Naden; and

Helen Wonnemburg, 18, sister of the driver, and Margaret Grieg, 19, 2985 Admirals. Both girls belonged to the RCAF. All four victims were taken to Naden Hospital from the early-morning accident. Four others hurt when cars, centre and left, crashed head on late Sunday were Alan Eddy, 920 Brock, driver of one car and James Modeste, driver of the other car, and his passengers, Mrs. Helen Jimmy and Mrs. Louisa Harry, all of Koksilah. They were reported in fairly good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night. The two air force women injured in the earlier accident were stationed at Mayo RCAF Station and were on their way to Comox. (William Boucher photos.)

Skindiver Drowns In Saanichton Bay

... condition fair

Coroner's inquiry will be conducted today into the death of a young Brentwood amateur skindiver who drowned in 125 feet of water at Saanichton Bay Sunday. Rescue attempts were delayed when fellow divers ran out of air.

The diver, Francis "Frank" Albert Dignan, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dignan, 1187 Dignan, was found 40 minutes after he was last seen, 200 yards from shore.

FACE DOWN

His brother-in-law and tutor, Robert Lee, 961 Marchant, said he found him lying face down on the ocean bed just off Saanichton Spit.

Water had apparently penetrated Dignan's "dry" rubber suit and weighed the 170-pound diver down so he couldn't move, the brother-in-law said.

The drowning victim was employed as a truck driver by Yarrows Ltd.

His wife Sybil gave birth to a daughter, Susan, two weeks ago. It was the young couple's first child.

The young diver, only a novice, accompanied Lee and six friends on the skin-diving expedition off Saanichton Spit at the northeastern tip of Saanichton Bay.

He wanted to try for cod fish and was warned not to go too far alone.

"I loaned him my equipment and he went off with a friend and another diver loaned me his tank with limited air and I followed," the brother-in-law said.

"Frank apparently didn't hear when I yelled I was coming too. I cruised around just diving about 200 yards away."

CALL FOR HELP

He said he didn't realize anything was wrong until a fisherman told him "a diver" had surfaced, "yelled for help," and gone down again.

"I circled but I found no trace of him and my air was very low," Lee said.

His statement had all expended their air tanks and were forced to abandon rescue attempts while one diver went for more air.

"When the new air supply came I went down deep and found him lying on the bottom," the brother-in-law said.

"I pulled him to shore and artificial respiration was attempted by the other divers and the Central Saanich resuscitator crew, but it was too late."

'GOT PANICKY'

The young diver was told several times how to jettison his suit and equipment if anything happened "but I guess he got panicky and didn't know what to do," the others said.

His suit possibly got snagged on some undersea object or by a spear gun he carried, they speculated.

CHOKING THEORY

"I noticed his mouthpiece was floating free so he could have choked on water getting under the face plate," Mr. Lee added.

The drowned diver was wearing a regulation aqua-lung, with 70 cubic foot air tank and 20-pound lead belt.

He had a full tank of air and it is designed to last 20 to 25 minutes.

Funeral will be held at Brentwood United Church, Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

An inquiry into the death will be held "sometime today," coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said last night.

All novice skin divers who join clubs in Victoria are instructed in a special safety course on how to jettison equipment, experienced diver Harry Cross said last night.

Constable D. F. MacDonald said the Central Saanich volunteer fire department had to carry resuscitator gear to the last quarter-mile to the beach.

Polio Strikes Mother Who 'Neglected' Shots

DUNCAN—A 26-year-old mother of four who "neglected" to get Salk vaccine shots is in Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria—Vancouver Island's first polio victim this year.

The case is the second in the province this year.

The mother is Mrs. Verne Erickson, a resident on Maple Bay Road, about a mile and a half east of here.

Doctors reported she was not in critical condition yesterday, but that she had been in an iron lung since she was rushed to Victoria, Friday.

"We should have got the shots, but we just let it ride," said her husband, a logging truck driver who has been working at Britannia Beach.

"The kids got theirs, two of them got them all and the two others their first shots," said her husband.

"We were up there and then there was the strike. There was nothing doing so she and the kids came home in the first week in July," said Mr. Erickson.

He said the family's water supply is from a well on the property which is chlorinated. "She didn't get the bug from it," he said.

Mrs. Erickson was sent to hospital by Dr. Douglas McCauley and put in King's Daughters Hospital a week ago today. Mrs. Erickson was rushed to Victoria in a portable respirator when her illness was diagnosed as polio.

Only other case of polio this year in British Columbia was in Vancouver in June.

There were 12 cases of the disease in the province last year.

IWA Finding

'Union Funds Intact'

COURTENAY—More than 400 IWA members yesterday attended the largest mass meeting in the history of Local 1363 here, called to hear a special report on charges of misappropriation of funds.

Jack Moore, regional IWA vice-president, told reporters following the closed meeting that investigation showed "all the union funds are intact and that there was no misappropriation of funds."

Moore said all officers of the local were instructed to "carry on as they have done in the past." He was commenting on earlier reports that president Ben Falk and vice-president Earl Kemp had resigned following charges by a rebel group of 60 IWA members.

Walter Allen, president of Port Alberni IWA Local 185, a member of the three-man commission appointed to investigate charges of misappropriation of funds, said he was satisfied there would have been no opportunity to return any funds which might have been misappropriated.

Jack Epp, union financial secretary, had a curt "no comment" following the meeting.

Allen said the 400 members gave "very emphatic" approval to a resolution that "they are just as determined to win this strike today as they were on July 6 when it started."

"You can take my word for it," said Moore, "the IWA is not prepared to capitulate. When we go back to work it will be with a new contract."

Around the Island

Mayor Jordon Lashes Back At Wicks

PORT ALBERNI—Mayor Loran Jordon, who with two other Vancouver Island mayors interceded in the IWA strike last week, has taken issue with a subsequent statement from Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

"Referring to Mr. Wicks' charges that our efforts 'considerably delayed any government action to end the strike,' all I can say is: what action other than ours has taken place in the past six weeks?"

Mayors Jordon, William Moore of Courtenay and Pete Maffeo of Nanaimo approached leaders of the IWA and operators because, he said, "we as responsible heads of our communities felt it was time someone took the initiative."

"I feel the minister of labor, like many others, is very prone to sit back and criticize the efforts of others. If his department is so alive to the issues involved, some definite action should have been taken by now."

"Our only motive was to get both sides to sit down and again discuss the many points involved. I am disappointed in the companies' attitude shown in the statement that 'such talks at this time would serve no useful purpose.'"

"As mayor of Port Alberni, one of the hardest hit centres of the most disastrous work stoppage, I would advise Mr. Wicks and his department to stop sitting on their hands and endeavor to settle this dispute with a little less criticism of others who can see the forest for the trees."

NANAIMO—Records will be smashed at this year's Vancouver Island Exhibition—it is used to be the fall fair—in Nanaimo.

The four-day fair begins Wednesday at 10. A crowd totalling more than 20,000 are expected.

There are record entries for cattle shows, baby shows, flower shows and horse shows. A grand dance, a midway and stock car races are special features.

All, except the stock car racing, will be free. The Vancouver Island Exhibition Association has a "free entertainment" policy this year, but will levy a small charge at the gate.

NANAIMO—Top Sea Cadet Corps of the year is RSCSC Amphion, the Nanaimo group, which scored the highest points in B.C. during annual inspection.

CHEMAMINUS—Allan Gadsden of Westholme won the Chemainus Rod and Gun Club's annual salmon derby Sunday.

His 20-pound, five-ounce spring took top prize, a 14½-foot runabout with an outboard motor as well as the King Fisherman Perpetual Trophy.

Second prize, a movie camera, was won by Ham Baillie, Chemainus, who caught an 18-pounder. Orrie Murrel, Chemainus, won a transistor radio as third prize with a 16-pound, 10-ounce spring.

A seven-pound, seven-ounce catch won Tom Anderson of Duncan a prize for the largest coho caught during the one-day event.

Top junior of the day was Billy Jameson, who won a spinning rod and perpetual trophy for boating a seven-pound, nine-ounce fish.

DUNCAN—Thirteen members of IWA local 180 were nominated to attend the union's 21st annual convention Sept. 21 to 25 at Minneapolis Minn.

They are Stanley Abercrombie, Honeyman Bay; Lorne Acheson, Cayuse Camp; Archie Praxada, Nanaimo; Ross Davis, Youbou; Gilbert Schofield, Chemainus; Welden Jubenville, Cowichan Lake; Alec McEwan, Chemainus; Ed Linder, Ladysmith; Robert Bouchard, Ladysmith; Humphrey Buller, Cowichan Lake; George Zizac, Ladysmith; Lorne Baker, Cayuse Camp, and Frank Wilson, Cowichan Lake.

Funeral services will be held here Thursday for Francis Oliver Work, 67, a sport fisherman who died of a heart attack Sunday at the government docks while returning from a fishing derby.

Mr. Work was born in Wellington and had lived here 44 years. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge 114, AF & AM.

Surviving are his widow, Olive, at home; a son, Norman, and a daughter, Mrs. G. H. Gillespie, Vancouver.

Rev. J. G. Matthews will officiate at services in the Anglican Church starting at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Chemainus Cemetery. Hirst funeral home in Duncan is in charge of the arrangements.

Child Flung 10 Feet By Car's Impact

A six-year-old Victoria girl was in only fair condition last night after colliding with a car when running across Bay Street near Douglas yesterday.

Little Marilyn Essler, 2325 McBride, suffered a fractured skull in the accident with a California car driven by Robert S. Johnson, of Enclino.

A witness, Mrs. Betty McGuire, 2620 Margate, said "the little girl was standing on the curb and all of a sudden she ran into the car."

Still shocked by the accident, Mrs. McGuire said the child was thrown about 10 feet back to the curb.

"Another little girl was with her but she didn't run out."

Willows Becoming 'Little Coney Island'

Oak Bay council is considering passage of a bylaw which will give police more control over the municipality's beaches.

Willows Beach in particular was described as a "little Coney Island" where athletes play lacrosse, golf, football and baseball among the crowds, water-skiers land and take off near small children and dogs run loose stealing lunches.

Request for a bylaw with "teeth" in it forbidding such activities was made by the board of police commissioners following a rash of complaints.

Minor offenses would be easier to deal with under a bylaw, said Oak Bay Police Chief Robert Smith.

Chief Smith said Willows Beach is "getting like a little Coney Island."

Agreeing that a "gap" exists in laws controlling activities at beaches, Reeve George Murdoch told council that motorcycles and cars had been known to race on the beach at low tide.

Close to Trash Can Isn't Good Enough

Litterbugs with poor or careless aim may find themselves subjects of close police interest.

Ald. Lily Wilson yesterday asked for some "teeth" in the bylaw which prohibits litter in city parks. She had seen, she said, several trash cans surrounded with litter, and watched maintenance men spend an hour simply picking up the odds and ends and putting them in the nearby can.

"Last year," said Ald. Wilson, "litter-clearing cost the board $10,000."

More signs will go up in the parks, reminding park users that commissioners are empowered to lay information against offenders—and will do so.

Tourists to Get 'Gagliardi' Signs

Local tourist officials will borrow a leaf from the book of B.C.'s illustrious highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi in order to placate irate tourists who have had to wait overlong for U.S.-bound ferries.

A "Sorry-for-the-Inconvenience" type of poster similar to Mr. Gagliardi's highway construction signs will be distributed to occupants of cars from outside the province.

The notices will read as follows:

"If you have had any inconveniences or delays when visiting Victoria, we are sorry."

"Three large automobile ferries are now being constructed for next year."

"These vessels will operate from Victoria to Port Angeles and from Sidney to the mainland and will provide about 800 additional spaces daily for automobiles in each direction and at least six additional round-trip services."

"You can take my word for it," said Moore, "the IWA is not prepared to capitulate. When we go back to work it will be with a new contract."

Faithful Leave Shoes Outside Temple

Worshippers' shoes were left outside as more than 500 East Indians crowded into the Hillcrest Sikh Temple at Mesache Lake, Sunday, to celebrate India's Independence Day. "Gurus" from the mainland and Victoria conducted the services to mark India's liberation from British rule on Aug. 15, 1947. Celebrations continued in the afternoon with sports, singing, and poetry reading in Punjabi.

Six Hundred Attend Rites

Proud, Peaceful Sikhs Mark Independence

By CHARLES THOMPSON
MESACHE LAKE — They are a proud people. Age-old patience and a highly developed personal Sikh religion makes them this way.

And they are especially proud of the way they won independence from Britain... and of remaining part of the Commonwealth.

Not a shot was fired. They were not like the Cubans. "It is bad to kill. Even your Bible says so. We practise it," said a white-bearded priest who would not give his name for publication because "I am the voice of the people."

More than 600 attended religious ceremonies in the Hillcrest Temple here, almost half the Sikh people in Canada. They came from Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster and other B.C. coast points.

At 7:30 a.m. they were welcomed with the familiar Punjabi saying, "Sat Sir Akal"—truth is eternal.

They followed the suggestions of the "Gurus," their spiritual leaders, who meditate on and pass on the word of Guru Gobind Singh (1666-1708), the tenth and last high Guru of the Sikhs.

TEMPLE FILLED
The little two-storey temple was filled for the two-hour-long service. And for most of the day during speeches and poetry readings.

They left once in a while to get a meatless snack of boiled vegetables, fruits, plenty of butter and curds, milk, whey, and roti, their unleavened bread.

Outside the temple the men took part in a sports program. Some lifted weights, played volleyball or soccer.

CUP RETAINED
Hillcrest volleyball players beat Port Alberni for the fourth year, and retained the Khalsa Diwan Society Cup. Hefty Chum Berar, 22, of Vancouver, beat six opponents when he lifted 235 pounds and pressed 215.

That is how they celebrated the anniversary of the day when Lord Mountbatten, then governor-general of India, turned over control of the government to Jawaharlal Nehru in New Delhi on Aug. 15, 1947, ending a pacifist "war" that had lasted 17 years.

PORT ALBERNI—An oversight cost Clarence Cootes, Kildonan, $16.50.

A visitor to Alberni, he had ordered a cab but had neglected to tell the driver the address of his destination before "passing out." With no alternative the driver had taken him to Port Alberni police station where he was charged with being intoxicated off the reserve.

Cootes pleaded guilty before Magistrate W. E. Macleod and was fined $10 with $6.50 costs.

Complaining IWA Men Refuse to Retract

DUNCAN — Two IWA members who complained in a television interview about not being able to get strike relief refused to retract their statements when they were called before the executive of local 1-90, here.

Armand Didier, 19, speaking for himself and his partner, Dale Carl, 22, said yesterday, "We didn't do anything to hurt the union, so we see no reason for change our views."

Local president George Smythe said the two did not understand union procedure and that one of them had been granted relief before the interview was aired. He received it Friday, the day after their statements were aired on CBC television.

Didier's application has also been approved by the strike committee, and he will receive relief for the week ending Saturday. Carl has already received the money.

"We just believe union members should receive an equal share of the money until it is all gone," said Didier.

Injured Driver Released

ALBERNI — The 19-year-old driver of a car which was completely demolished after shearing off a power pole has been released from hospital after being treated for lacerations of an ear.

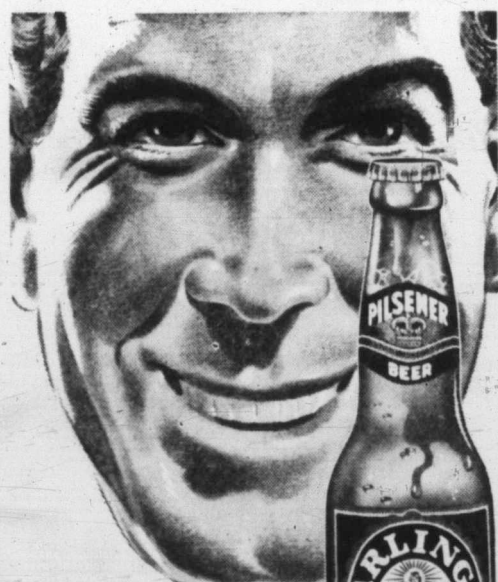

Jacob Kraneveldt, of Beaver Creek Road, was taken to West Coast General Hospital after the accident on McCoy Lake Road early Sunday. His 1948 car was wrecked when it crashed into the pole then turned over in a gully approximately 120 feet away.

A passenger in the vehicle was treated for minor injuries and released immediately. The driver remained in hospital until Monday morning.

The crash put power lines out of operation for a short time until repairs were effected by B.C. Power Commission employees.

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo man was "let off" with a $50 fine for dumping garbage on Seventh Street after he cleaned up the mess he made.

Paul Paskaryk appeared in Nanaimo police court yesterday for sentence. He was remanded Friday because he had not then picked up the refuse he had deposited beside the road.

People Stranded in Elevators

NEW YORK (AP) — A gigantic power failure, worst of its kind in New York's history, Monday knocked out service to some 500 square blocks of homes, apartments, hospitals, museums and business establishments.

The break was confined to the area on both sides of Central Park where 500,000 persons reside. But its effects extended to the far reaches of the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn.

Millions of people were caught in the snarl that grew out of the power failure. The misery of 89-degree heat and murderous humidity was compounded by tieups above and below the blistering streets of the city.

Subway service on the Independent Line—fastest and finest in the city—was halted completely in midtown for a time. When it resumed, trains inched along, motor men guided by lantern signals from sentinels aloft in the dark tunnels. This cut service by half during the rush hour, creating vast underground jams of steaming humanity.

Hospital patients were operated on by surgeons working beneath emergency lights. Iron lungs were operated manually to keep imprisoned victims alive.

Traffic lights went out, leaving bewildered motorists without guidance at some of the busiest intersections in the world.

Elevators stranded people between floors when the power went off. The burdensome heat was the cause of the mess. Demands on the power network burned out seven feeder lines.

No Lights Bewilder Motorists

This so increased the burden on 13 other feeder lines in the network that they had to be shut down lest irreparable damage result.

The affected area encompasses some of the stateliest apartment buildings in the city, some of its finest restaurants, most of its museums and several of its hospitals. Extra police were assigned to the afflicted area to guard against looting on darkened streets. Few shopkeepers were able to keep open after dark for lack of power facilities.

Some banks in the area were unable to lock their vaults for the night, because the ponderous doors are manipulated by electricity. Extra guards were assigned to the institutions.

Radar Trap Gets 60

PRINCETON (CP)—Sixty drivers were tagged for speeding Sunday when RCMP set up two radar speed traps near here for drivers returning to Vancouver from the Kelowna regatta which ended Saturday.

It was the largest bag of speeders ever ticketed in the B.C. Interior with the aid of radar.

'Quake Rattles B.C., Prairies

VANCOUVER (CP) — An earth tremor rolled through the Pacific Northwest late Monday, heaving sidewalks, rocking buildings and rattling dishes.

Slight damage was reported and the tremor was sharpest in the West Kootenays and the southern B.C. Interior.

An RCMP officer sitting at his desk in Fairview, in the Okanagan Valley, was startled when a chair began rolling aimlessly on its casters.

FEW SECONDS

The quake was unofficially reported to have taken place at 11:45 p.m. PDT. Most reports said it lasted only a few seconds, although a report from Kelowna said it lasted half a minute or more.

Shaking of lamps and the rattling of dishes was reported in the Seattle, Spokane, Wenatchee and Everett areas of Washington and in Lethbridge and Regina on the Prairies.

No reports were immediately available from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich.

Residents of Penticton said they had a "queasy" feeling. "There was no sound but we soon knew what had happened," said one man.

SIDEWALKS ROLL

Residents of Nelson said dishes rattled and buildings shuddered. At Fairview, some saw the sidewalks heave and roll.

The radio station at Trail was swamped with calls. At Grand Forks the walls of the community's telephone exchange office were cracked.

Normally calm and placid Skaha Lake, near Penticton, erupted with "miniature tidal wave," a witness said.

A patron of a drive-in theatre at Vernon accused his wife of rocking the car when the tremor shook the grounds. She denied it and blamed him for

Wicks Acts In Dispute

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks stepped into the coast lumber strike yesterday by appointing economics expert Dr. John J. Deutsch of Vancouver as mediator.

The move was welcomed by spokesmen for both management and union involved in the six-week-old strike which has brought B.C.'s major industry to a full stop and left 25,000 coastal workers idle.

EARLIER PROBE

Dr. Deutsch, former professor of economics at the University of British Columbia, conducted last year's investigation into the amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipalities.

Both Joe Morris, IWA district president, and J. M. Billings, manager of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., immediately notified Mr. Wicks of their appreciation of the move and promised the fullest co-operation.

Dr. Deutsch was appointed a one-man industrial inquiry commission under section 44 of the Labor Relations Act, which gives the labor minister power to "do such things as seem calculated to maintain or secure industrial peace and to promote conditions favorable to settlement of disputes."

He has been given 14 days in which to investigate the situation and report back to Mr. Wicks. The time may be extended at Mr. Wicks' discretion.

Mr. Billings promised all relevant information will be supplied to Dr. Deutsch.

WE HAVE FAITH...

"We have faith in the soundness of our position and are confident that Dr. Deutsch...

...will have due regard for the position of a highly exposed and competitive industry like ours, as contrasted with sheltered local industries," he said.

Mr. Morris said the IWA has been "ready at all times to enter discussions promising a satisfactory settlement of the dispute."

Majority recommendation of a conciliation board approved before the strike the offer made by management for an increase equivalent to seven per cent over two years in the $1.72 hourly wage.

The union has asked for a 20-per-cent increase but is reported to have reduced this to 12 per cent during negotiations.

Jostled From Bed

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — The Lethbridge area apparently was the Alberta centre Monday night of an earth tremor felt throughout the Pacific Northwest.

The tremor was recorded in Lethbridge at 11:40 p.m. and was noticed in a wide area surrounding the city.

In the Waterton Lakes National Park, 60 miles southwest, guests at resorts were jostled out of their beds by the tremor.

Buildings Shaken

REGINA (CP) — Regina buildings, especially the taller ones, were rocked by an earthquake at 12:45 a.m. today.

No damage was reported but the quake could be felt as three sharp shocks that rattled windows, swayed buildings and, on a tall apartment building, set furniture clattering across floors.

He Missed

Innocent Gunman Hunted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A teen-ager's gunman who police say is desperate because he thinks he has killed a man was being hunted in the Fraser Valley Monday night.

A score of RCMP officers were looking for a youth who injured four persons by firing through the window of a CPR train, came within inches of shooting to death a sleeping Indian and fired three other fusillades in the area.

RCMP broadcast a radio appeal to a 19-year-old youth from Agassiz, B.C., telling him to give himself up because he didn't kill the Indian he shot at.

Police said he shot at Peter John, 19, of Hope, at 10 p.m. Sunday. The bullet spun into the mattress of John's bed only inches from his body.

A few minutes earlier, a rifle shot shattered the window of a self-propelled CPR diesel car near John's home. Spraying glass hit four passengers who were later treated for slight cuts at a nearby hospital.

Police said that about the same time a lock was shot off the door of a CPR stationhouse in the same area.

Officers suspect the youth whom they are hunting is jealous of Peter John.

Six Steps Brought Fame

OTTAWA (CP) — A rookie Ottawa policeman has earned himself lasting fame on his first tour of beat duty.

The rookie, spared identification by his superiors who told the story Monday, was checking in downtown Ottawa when he found a store door unlocked. He phoned the owner, who came and locked up. At the end of his shift, the constable began to make out the standard "unsecured property" form reporting the incident. All went well until he came to the heading, "Steps taken."

He wrote: "Six. Three in. Nothing wrong. Three out."

Dollars 'Steered' To German Homes

Ship Rites Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—The $3,000,000 department of transport icebreaker Simon Fraser will be christened today by Mrs. E. D. Fulton, wife of the minister of justice. The craft will be based in Victoria as a supply, search and rescue vessel.

KAISERSLAUTERN, Germany (Reuters) — A special joint West German-American commission met here Monday to investigate allegations that millions of dollars worth of American government material and labor have been used to build and repair houses and private roads for Germans.

A United States army investigator told a reporter: "This has been going on for six years..."

"We have about 100 suspects in the Kaiserslautern post repair and utility section who most likely built 28 private homes and three private roads with stolen material from the Kaiserslautern repair and utility depot."

A spokesman at the U.S. army European headquarters in Heidelberg said Friday it also had been alleged that army employees who reported irregularities to their superiors had been demoted or discharged.

Trustees Cool To City Hall

Tentative plans to include Greater Victoria school board offices in any new city hall were coolly received by school trustees last night.

City manager C. C. Wyatt appeared before the school board at its regular monthly meeting to explain the proposed lease-purchase plan for a new eight-story city hall.

Board chairman Mrs. Gertrude McGill said she was concerned that if the school board occupied two floors of the city hall there would be no room for further expansion.

Trustee Richard Reeve said parking facilities required by the board would have to hold about 200 cars.

He said probably the school board would be better served at least cost if its own building was located farther out of the downtown area, in view of parking requirements.

Board secretary-treasurer T. L. Christie said he was told by city comptroller Dennis Young that an estimated rental would approximate $1.75 per square foot.

"That figure is quite low," Mr. Christie said, "but it would amount to some $31,500 a year. On the other hand, the school board could build its own building at a cost of $350,000 and amortize it at an annual cost of $30,513 on six per cent coupons."
